Tape Gap Disclosure Damaging to Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical experts have eliminated the theory that a single, accidental act caused the 18.5-minute gap in a subpoenaed Watergate tape.

But, at a federal court hearing Tuesday, the experts were prevented by objections from White House lawyers from speculating whether there was any way the tape could have been erased accidentally.

Both Republican and Democratic members of Congress said the new development had seriously damaged the President. And, in Los Angeles, former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said the findings "definitely will not help Nixon."

"The theory that there has been a conscious effort to conceal evidence is no longer a theory," said Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, leader of the House Republican Conference.

"The burden has shifted for the President and his White House aides to explain what went on," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said in Olympia, Wash.

Two Secret Service agents were expected to testify later today about who had access to the tape recorder that the experts said produced the buzz heard on the obliterated segment of the tape.

It was the recorder Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, said she was using last Oct. 1, when she accidentally pushed the record button after being interrupted while trying to transcribe the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman.

Haldeman's notes indicated that the obliterated segment included all discussion of the Watergate break-in, which had occurred three days earlier.

The six-member panel of experts, chosen jointly by the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor's office, agreed unanimously that the tape showed that the record button had been pushed not once, but, at least five, and possibly as many as nine times. "Further," they said "whether the foot pedal was used or not, the recording controls must have been operating by hand...."

But, one of the six testified, "We have no idea when it occurred or who was responsible."

One member of the panel, Richard H. Bolt, former head of the acoustics laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and now board chairman of a private research firm, explained that the Uher 5000 recorder has a record head and an erase head, each of which leaves a distinct mark or signature on the tape.

The record head signature is a single line; the erase head leaves four parallel lines. The signatures are not visible to the eye unless the tape is treated with a solution containing magnetized particles which line up over the lines. Bolt said such signatures are left when the heads are deactivated after the machine has been recording or erasing.

In each case, he said, the record button must have been depressed and then released by pressing any one of four other buttons on the machine — the stop, start, rewind or fast forward buttons.

The experts found five erase signatures within the 18 minute gap and signs that as many as four others may have been erased.

Each erase signature required manual depression of the record button and then its release, they said.

When an assistant special prosecutor asked Thomas G. Stockham Jr., a panel member from the University of Utah, whether it was likely the five erase marks could have been caused by "accident or inadvertence," White House counsel objected that Stockham lacked the knowledge to say.

The prosecutor then asked whether a person listening to a tape on the Uher machine, with no intention of erasing it, might accidentally do so in the normal operation of the machine.

Once again, White House counsel objected before Stockham could answer.

Other points made by the experts included:

—Three fragments that appeared to be conversation were found but recovery of the speech obliterated by the gap "is not possible by any method known to us."

—Only on the machine Miss Woods had used were the experts able to duplicate the buzz heard throughout the obliterated segment. After a defective part was replaced, they could no longer duplicate it.

—When there is no microphone attached, a recorder is much more sensitive to electronic interference such as might have caused the buzz. Miss Woods was not using a microphone when she was transcribing the tape.

—The erase marks indicated the conversation had been rubbed out, not obliterated by the buzz. Bolt said that even had the buzz not been heard, there would have been no conversation on the tape.

Hopeful Kissinger Returns to Egypt

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Egypt today, reporting that differences between the Israelis and Egyptians over plans to separate their armies on the Suez front "have been substantially narrowed."

After talks with Israeli officials that lasted until 4 a.m., Kissinger said the discussions were "making good progress." He said he would return to Israel with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's response to Israel's latest ideas on disengagement plans, and he hoped that on his return "the remaining difficulties will be narrowed even more and can be eliminated."

"The differences which existed have been substantially narrowed, and I hope progress will lead to an agreement which would mark a turning point in the conflict in the Middle East," said Kissinger, hatless despite a chill rain and carrying a trench coat on his arm.

However, Israeli political sources said Kissinger was en-counter difficulty over guarantees for Israel's security and Anwar Sadat's response to Israel's latest ideas on disengagement plans, and he hoped that on his return "the

The sources said Israel wants a raeli commitment that it will continue troop withdrawals United States — and possibly to the Soviet Union — to stick to the terms of a disengagement agreement. Sadat so far had refused to give any firm undertaking on any proposed terms of withdrawal, they said.

Israeli officials said earlier these serious obstacles to an agreement remained: —Israel's demand that Egypt trim its forces on the east bank of the Suez Canal by removing heavy guns and missiles. Egypt has refused so far to agree to this.

Abba Eban and Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the military chief of staff. He also called on Premier Golda Meir, who is at home with a case of shingles.

After the morning session, Kissinger said he had the impression the Israelis found "constructive aspects" in the Egyptian proposals. But Eban said he would like an expression from the Egyptians that they saw constructive aspects in the Israeli proposals.

Kissinger also had said on Monday that he believed the differences between the Israelis and Egyptians had been narrowed substantially. Eban conceded only that each round in the back-and-forth talks took the negotiators into "more and more details."

The Israeli command said three Israeli soldiers were wounded Tuesday in a battle inside Suez City. Syria claimed that at least 20 Israelis were killed or wounded Tuesday in a clash on the central sector of the Golan Heights front. An Israeli communique reported a series of clashes there but said there were no Israeli casualties.

By coincidence, a group called SCORE is attempting much the same thing on the Strand by restoring the three buildings it owns now, acquiring The Daily Freeman building and turning the whole section into an 1870's motif. May-nor Koenig met with sponsors of that proposal last week and commented that it was "im-habilitation rather than demolition. Lise, who was in Kingston August and was conducted on a tour of Rondout by the mayor, apparently liked what he saw in Rondout and judged it well worth preserving. "I found it all one of the most interesting and charming assemblages of store fronts and housing which I have seen," Lise wrote Koenig.

Officials of the Kingston Area Library, once opposed to a move to the old city hall, now suggest that architects representing the city and the library should discuss the matter. Story, Page 2.

In suggesting that the "initiative should be immediately taken" to establish an historic district in the area bounded by St. Mary's School, Ferry Street, Broadway and Wurts Street, Lise also writes, "A real cost benefit study for rehabilitation should be made to demonstrate that it pays to save and upgrade . . . The comparison should extend also to an evaluation of the amenities gained as opposed to living in the kind of public housing such as that north of the railroad tracks, the likes of which you can find anywhere." Lise was referring to Rondout Gardens.

Both seem to agree on the possibility of merging commercial with residential, i.e., constructing apartments on top of stores in the shopping plaza. Urban renewal officials were approached by a Virginia based redeveloper late last year on just such a proposal but as yet nothing concrete has been heard from the would-be redeveloper. The construction of a shopping facility would be the last major development in Broadway East. The area already has a new city hall and a new fire station and construction on a new Daily Freeman building or Koenig met with sponsors of that proposal last week and commented that it was "im-

Oil Supplies Depend on Weather

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy officials say there will be enough heating oil to go around this winter unless the weather is unusually severe and provided most Americans turn their thermostats down.

"If we get a colder than normal winter we could run short," said John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office (FEO). But he said that if the weather is normal the threat of a general heating oil shortage will disappear.

Sawhill said that if oil continues to "leak" to U.S. refineries through the Arab embargo, the energy crisis will be enough heating oil to go around this winter unless the weather is unusually severe and provided most Americans turn their thermostats down.

But the government still says homeowners should turn their thermostats down 6 degrees and businesses 10 degrees. Heating oil stocks have reached sufficiently high levels short," said John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office (FEO). But he said that if the weather is normal the threat of a general heating oil shortage will disappear.

Manslaughter Trial Testimony Begins

By JEFF GREENE

KINGSTON — The charge: first degree manslaughter. The defendant: 31-year old Linda May Tubby who is alleged to have killed her father, Kenneth, with his own .38 caliber revolver as he slept upstairs at their home at 215 Delaware Avenue last July 1.

Testimony in the trial began Tuesday at the County Court House with attempts by the prosecution to establish a motive for the shooting and attempts by the defense to find inconsistencies in the testimony of Mrs. Myrtle Tubby, the defendant's mother and the only other person said to have been at home at the time when the killing allegedly took place.

Mrs. Tubby, wife of the victim, was the first and only witness under cross-examination by District Attorney Francis Vogt.

Mrs. Tubby told how she and her daughter slept in a downstairs room, due to the fact that Linda May was an epileptic and had to be kept under constant watch. Mrs. Tubby said that on the night of June 30, she and her daughter went to bed about 10 p.m. Her husband, she said, was already asleep upstairs.

After several hours had elapsed, according to Mrs. Tubby she heard her daughter get out of bed. Thinking Linda May had gone to the bathroom, Mrs. Tubby said she dozed, while waiting for her daughter to return. Mrs. Tubby said she didn't know just how long she dozed, but suddenly she heard a shot from upstairs.

Mrs. Tubby testified that when Linda May came back downstairs she was wearing a pair of gloves and held a gun in her hand. She said her daughter then said, "Mommy, I just killed Daddy." Then, according to Mrs. Tubby, Linda May said "Oops, I forgot the gun, I better put it back upstairs." Mrs. Tubby said her daughter then went back up stairs and when she came down again said "Yes, he's dead."

Mrs. Tubby said her daughter then took off the gloves, put them under her mattress and went back to sleep.

Vogt indicated through Mrs. Tubby's testimony that there was considerable estrangement between her husband and Linda May. It evolved from the fact that Linda May, some 15 months before the day of the alleged killing, had returned home from a hospital where she had spent nearly 12 years.

During her stay at the hospital, said Mrs. Tubby, Linda May met a blind man with whom she fell in love. The two became engaged, and this for the victim (Tubby) became the cause of much concern. His opposition to the proposed marriage, said Mrs. Tubby, caused much antagonism between father and daughter.

Mrs. Tubby said that on the night before the shooting, Linda May told her father, "you better eat well tonight because this will be your last supper."

Defense attorney John Gotelli, in questioning the witness attempted to show that there were several inconsistencies in the statements made by Mrs. Tubby to police the morning after the shooting, at the arraignment, before a grand jury, and Tuesday at the trial. Specifically, Gotelli referred to the question of whether or not her daughter was holding a gun when she came downstairs — in a previous statement, Mrs. Tubby said she was not — and whether or not the victim was drinking heavily the night before he was killed. The trial is to resume before County Judge Raymond J. Mito Thursday at 10 a.m.

Library Board Head Cites Proposal

KINGSTON — Mrs. Ruth Poley, president of the Kingston Area Library Board of Trustees, suggested today that architects working with the city and the library get together to discuss a proposal that the library be moved over to the old city hall at 408 Broadway.

proposal by Harry Weese Associates of Chicago that the old city hall be renovated for use as a library. Mrs. Poley said, "We are pleased to see that some action is being taken with regard to the library's future even though we don't feel that the move to city hall is the best possible choice for a new location."

Mrs. Poley suggests that Michael Liseac, architect with Harry Weese Associates, meet with the library's architect, Aaron Cohen. "Mr. Liseac's firm specializes in the restoration and preservation of historic buildings," Mrs. Poley said. "Mr. Cohen is a specialist in the design of libraries. Possibly a combination of their talents would produce a realistic disposition of the problem."

The statement concludes with, "a committee from the library board looks forward to meeting with the mayor and representatives of the other interested organizations for a more complete discussion."

Mayor Koenig contacted the Weese firm last summer and during August conducted Liseac on a tour of the old city hall, the library and Rondout.

The library has been seeking relocation money from the city for almost a year. Various sites have been suggested but city officials have indicated they want the library to stay where it is.

The library has hired Cohen with an eye toward on-site renovation and expansion. Library officials estimate the cost at some $350,000 and have asked the city for $35,000 to pay architectural fees.

PERB Schedules Jan. 24 Meet With City Cops

KINGSTON — PERB Mediator Kenneth Larson Jr. has termed Tuesday's three-hour meeting with city officials and police officers "useful" and has announced that another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 24 at 1:30 p.m.

No agreement was reached Tuesday and Larson indicated that initial meetings will serve to identify the areas of differences. City police, represented by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, want a 30 per cent salary increase which they say will make them comparable with other police departments in the Mid-Hudson Valley. The city is offering about five per cent. The term of the contract is also at issue. The policemen want a one-year contract. The city wants a two-year contract.

Prices in effect thru Saturday, Jan. 19, 6:00 p.m.

Budget Cuts Emphasize Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1973 Congress cut President Nixon's appropriations requests by $3.3 billion but, despite this, it boosted overall spending for fiscal 1974 by $3.5 billion.

These are the final figures compiled by the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures.

The legislators paid more attention to economy than usual throughout last year's session and did make a considerably better record than in 1972.

In that year they reduced appropriations by $5.3 billion but raised spending for fiscal 1973 by about $11 billion.

The figures re-emphasize that congressional action on legislative bills often has a greater impact on the spending budget than what Congress does on appropriation bills.

Thus the $3.3 billion cut in the $292 billion in appropriations requested by Nixon in 1973 actually reduced spending by only $533 million for fiscal 1974.

The reason is that cuts voted in appropriations often affect not the fiscal year immediately ahead but future years. Spending in the year coming up is made up partly of current appropriations but also of appropriations voted in previous years.

The $533 million spending cut resulting from the appropriations reductions last year was much more than offset by two factors. These were $3.3 billion of spending hikes in a variety of legislative bills and $728 million of further budget increases resulting from congressional action on presidential proposals designed to save money.

The net of all this was the $3.5 billion spending increase.

Despite this increase, however, the 1974 budget picture has improved greatly over the one painted by Nixon when he submitted his budget a year ago.

Nixon forecast a $268.7 billion spending budget with a $12.7 billion deficit.

The latest administration estimate, though, is that spending will total $270 billion but that the budget will be exactly in balance.

The elimination of the deficit results from a big upsurge in federal revenues caused by higher individual incomes and corporate profits than originally expected. It is possible these revenue estimates for the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30 will fall off somewhat if the fuel situation brings an economic slowdown.

Jakarta Quiet After Riots

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Jakarta was quiet today in the wake of anti-Japanese riots in which hospital officials said six students were killed and 49 were injured.

Visiting Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka spent a quiet morning with his daughter Makiko at the guest house on the grounds of the presidential palace. He was scheduled to meet members of the Japanese community at the residence of the Japanese ambassador, but some officials feared if he ventured out before leaving for home Thursday, more rioting would result.

More than 1,000 armed troops ringed the palace compound, and armored cars were posted at each corner.

Military authorities closed off all main streets to university campuses while security agents searched for leaders of the student demonstrations Tuesday against Tanaka's visit.

Tanaka arrived Monday night for the last stop of a five-nation tour of Southeast Asia. The next morning, as he conferred with President Suharto at Freedom Palace, more than 5,000 students went on a rampage through the streets of the city when the army prevented them from marching on the palace.

The mobs destroyed about 100 Japanese cars and motorcycles, smashed the windows of shops that displayed Japanese advertising and hurled bricks and stones at the soldiers.

The troops hit back with their bayonets and gun butts, but it could not be learned whether any shots were fired. The violence ended Tuesday night after the government imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Suharto gave a state banquet for Tanaka Tuesday night, but only 17 of the 69 invited guests showed up. Informed sources said the absences were because of the riots, the curfew and the generally tense situation.

Tanaka in a speech at the banquet promised to see that Japanese companies in foreign countries readjust their conduct and policies in accordance with local situations.

Tanaka during his trip was the target of hostile demonstrations in Bangkok and Kuala Lumpur also, but violence developed only in Jakarta. There were no demonstrations during his visits to Manila and Singapore.

The students resent Japan's growing economic penetration of Southeast Asia and complain that the Japanese businessmen who have descended on their countries are as arrogant and high-handed as the prewar white colonials they had to deal with.

Ex-Hughes Aide Wants to Talk

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — A former aide to billionaire Howard Hughes says he wants to tell the Senate Watergate committee about relationships between the President, the President's brother Donald and the Hughes organization.

John Meier, 40, said in an interview at his home in suburban Tsawwassen, B.C., that if the committee does not hold hearings on the subject, he is considering releasing his testimony through the news media.

Meier has met with committee investigators twice. Asked what he wants to testify about, Meier listed Hughes' purchase of Air West Air Lines for a reported $90 million in 1969 — which President Nixon approved — and $250,000 in campaign contributions from Hughes to Nixon in both the 1968 and 1972 presidential elections.

"It encompasses the whole Howard Hughes-Richard Nixon-Don Nixon relationship," Meier said.

Meier declined to elaborate on specific aspects of his planned testimony, saying he intended to honor a pledge made to the Watergate investigators that he wouldn't discuss it prior to the hearings. The committee has not announced whether it will reconvene its hearings. The decision will not be made until after Congress reconvenes Jan. 21.

Meier said he is eager to testify because his "problems" stem from his knowledge of activities by Hughes officials and the Nixon administration. Those problems include a $9 million lawsuit filed against Meier by Hughes and two indictments by federal grand juries alleging conspiracy and income tax evasion. Both the Hughes suit and the indictments relate to some $18 million in mining claims bought by Hughes Tool Co. when Meier was its "scientific adviser."

"I've been under a lot of pressure, which started after being questioned by the Watergate people," Meier said.

Meier said that Hughes hired him as an executive aide because of the billionaire's project to halt nuclear testing in Nevada. He said he worked mainly on that project during his first years with Hughes.

He said also he has told the Watergate committee about dealings between Hughes and the Nixon administration on the atomic testing issue.

VanderLaan GOP Choice

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Robert VanderLaan has won the Republican nomination to the congressional seat Vice President Gerald R. Ford held for 25 years.

And the 43-year-old majority leader of the Michigan Senate has been promised Ford's support in a general election campaign for the 5th Congressional District seat the GOP has held since 1916.

"The primary indicates that the voters were looking for a man who could fill Jerry Ford's shoes," VanderLaan said Tuesday night after overwhelming three challengers in the party primary.

Complete but unofficial returns gave VanderLaan 26,105 votes, or nearly 55 per cent of the total cast.

Kent County Prosecutor James K. Miller received 11,380 votes, former Grand Rapids Mayor Robert Boelens had 6,626 and another state senator, Milton Zaagman, trailed with 4,354.

Richard Vander Veen, a 51-year-old Grand Rapids lawyer who ran unopposed for the Democratic nomination, had 4,696 votes.

Vander Veen, who lost to Ford in 1958, and VanderLaan clash in the general election Feb. 18. The ballot will also include Socialist Labor and American Independent party candidates.

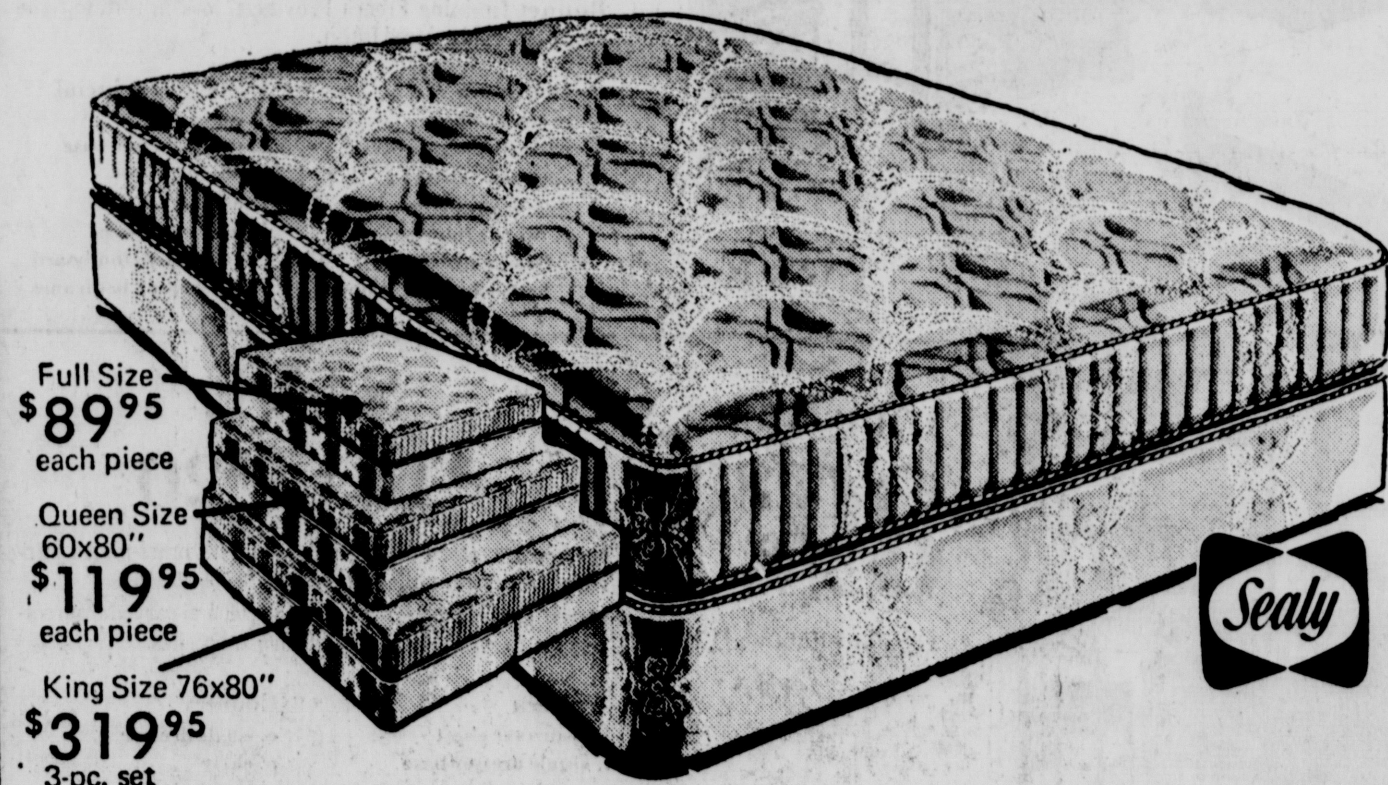

As campaign workers and well wishers congratulated VanderLaan at a victory party in a downtown hotel, Ford called.

"Jerry congratulated me and said he was sure I'll make a great congressman. He'll do everything he can to secure my election Feb. 18," VanderLaan said.

AFTER THE APPOINTMENT—Appeals Court Chief Judge Charles Breitell, right, talks to Bartlett of Glens Falls as state administrative judge. The newly created position will take over the duties previously performed by the state administrator of the courts. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Watchdog Committee on State Judges Revived

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A legislative study group has revived a proposal for a state commission to toughen the discipline of judges.

There's an unhappiness with the court system on the part of the people," said Sen. Bernard Gordon, R-Westchester, Tuesday as he unveiled the report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization.

The proposed new disciplinary body, to be called the Commission on Judicial Conduct, could censure judges or ask the Court on the Judiciary to suspend or remove them.

The joint committee also recommended that judges of the Court of Appeals be appointed by the governor, instead of being elected, as they are now.

It suggested that the powers of the chief state court administrator be strengthened and that the state constitution be changed to allow the state to take over some costs of local courts.

In other action

The Assembly adopted a resolution commemorating the birthday Tuesday of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

An important committee chairman said he was drafting legislation to allow local communities to block projects of the state Power Authority. Assemblyman Clarence Lane, R-Greene, chairman of the Environmental Conservation Committee, represents an area that is a likely spot for such a plant.

The proposal for the Commission on Judicial Conduct has been advanced several times in recent years, and competing versions of the same general proposal got to the floor of both houses in the legislature last year before being lost in the closing days' crush.

Gordon, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and his Assembly counterpart, Gordon Burrows, R-Westchester, said they expected approval of a constitutional amendment setting up such a commission this year.

If approved by the legislature, the amendment would have to be approved again by the legislators elected this coming November before being submitted to the voters as a referendum.

Under current procedures, a wayward judge can be disciplined only by the Court on the Judiciary, and the only penalties allowed are suspension, removal or forced retirement.

The Court on the Judiciary is headed by the chief judge of the Court of Appeals, and can be convened only by him or the executive committee of the state Bar Association.

There is no permanent staff anywhere in the state government assigned to take and investigate complaints against judges.

Gordon's proposal would change that, the Commission on Judicial Conduct—which would consist of nine persons, no more than five of them judges—would be set up as a permanent watchdog on judicial behavior.

It could hire a staff, investigate allegations of wrongdoing, censure a judge, call the Court on the Judiciary into session, and, in effect, prosecute a judge before the court.

Even as Gordon moved to boost the idea of new powers for the chief state court administrator, Chief Judge Charles Breitell was announcing that he had appointed an administrator and expected him to have an expanded role.

He tapped Richard Bartlett, a former assemblyman and now a state Supreme Court justice, for the job, and gave him the new title of chief administrator judge. The new nomenclature reflects judges' sensitivity to having an administrator over them who is not a judge himself.

Under current law, the chief administrator is an instrument of the five judicial departments, which do their own budgeting and assigning of judges.

Gordon's proposed amendment would put budgeting and judicial assignment in the hands of a chief administrator, who would be appointed by the chief judge and confirmed by the Senate.

Gordon did not spell out the details of his plan for the state taking over some local court costs, and the constitutional amendment he offered would allow the legislature to decide at some future time whether or not to do so. The constitution allows the state to pay part of the costs only of the state courts.

The proposal for appointment of the Court of Appeals judges comes on the heels of an expensive and media-oriented race for the chief judgeship, which Republican Breitell won in the November election.

Breitell and his Democratic opponent, Jacob Fuchsberg, spent almost a million dollars, much of it raised from lawyers who could have cases before the high court.

Breitell at the time assailed the election as demeaning, and his criticisms were echoed by the state Bar Association and many legislators.

Untouched by Gordon's proposals is the question of whether any of the state's judges should be elected. Presently, all of the judges of the Supreme Court, Surrogate's Court, County Court, Family Court, Court of Appeals and many local courts are elected.

Water Storage Tank Resolution in Woodstock

By CARL GRAHAM

WOODSTOCK

The Woodstock Town Board approved Tuesday night a resolution for a one million gallon water storage tank for the town's water district and for a bond issue to help pay for it.

The tank will be constructed on Yerry Hill Road, and will be landscaped with trees and shrubs around it. It is designed to help equalize water pressure at various points in the town's widespread water district.

The 40-year bond issue is for $185,050, which will be added to $43,000 the town has accumulated to make up the $228,050 total price. No timetable was announced for the beginning of construction.

The board, which failed to name an official newspaper at its organizational meeting Jan. 3, solved the problem by dividing the official chores between the Woodstock Times and the Woodstock Townsman.

Supervisor Verner May said he had discussed the situation with representatives of both papers and that board members feel they should try to split the town business between the two publishers.

The board unanimously passed May's resolution which does not name an "official" town paper but makes the Townsman the recipient of official notices for the first six months of the year, then switches to the Times for the remaining six months. May said that both papers had agreed to publish official notices during the periods when the other paper is paid for the work and that he was grateful for their concession, since the town could not afford the cost of printing legal notices in both papers at once.

The board passed a resolution calling on the three school districts represented in the town to consider moving school opening times one-half hour to one hour later during winter months. Board members said that small children were endangered having to wait for buses during early morning hours before daylight, and the Ontario, Kingston, and Saugerties school districts will be asked to help remedy the situation by adjusting school starting times.

The board discussed two roads deeded over to the town by William E. West Inc. but balked at accepting them because one was named California Quarry Road and the other California Quarry Court. Town Justice Kevin Sweeney said that the similarity of names posed special problems for fire and ambulance services and said he would like to have the planning board consider names before roads are accepted. His resolution to accept the roads but refer the names to the planning board for consideration was passed.

The board held a lengthy discussion of the decision that put the five dispatchers for the town's fire and police center on salary beginning Jan. 1. Sweeney said he had opposed the move because he felt it would obligate the town to increasing costs to meet the cost of living in the future. May said that if the salary scheme doesn't work the board can always go back to the previous method of hourly pay for part-time work.

May said he hoped the town would have a proposed sewer district ready in time to be put on the November ballot for referendum. The town has allocated $6,000 in revenue sharing funds for a study of the town's sewage problems to be prepared by Brinnier and Larios, the town's consulting engineers.

In other action, the board:

- Thanked American Legion Post 1026 for its gift of an all-weather flag for the town building.
- Named John Mazzola of Woodstock to the town's Youth Council.
- Accepted the resignation of Elvin McDonald from the Recreation Committee. McDonald was transferred to Miami, Fla., by his employer.
- Accepted the resignation of Robert Boyd from the Civic Arts Council and named Dagmar Arnold to replace him.
- Thanked Rotron Inc. for its check for $6,000 for the town's Andy Lee Recreation Field, which will be dedicated as soon as weather permits.
- Named town planner Charles Lippincott as Woodstock representative to the Ulster County Planning Board.

Flood Project Finale

ELLENVILLE

For those who may doubt it, the construction of the Ellenville Flood Control Project is nearly over, the evidence being a meeting sponsored by the State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) in Ellenville to tell the village what its responsibilities are in operating the project.

The meeting, involving officials of DEC, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Villages of Ellenville and Rosendale (Rosendale has its own Flood control project), and civil defense directors from several counties was held in the Ellenville Village Hall Tuesday, divided into both morning and afternoon sessions.

Though the project will have cost in the area of $3 million when complete — and officials described it as about 99 per cent complete now — it is actually "pretty maintenance free" according to Ellenville Village Manager Modris Pukulis.

Pukulis said the main areas of village responsibility will be the moving of the grass on the project's levees and the checking of the ditches and gates leading into the levees.

The village has to make sure the ditches are free of debris, so that surface water can flow into the streams contained by the Flood Control levees. The village has to make sure the gates work properly because once the water reaches a certain level during flood time the gates have to be shut so that water doesn't flow back into the village. Pukulis said the Ellenville project had 29 gates.

He said the village will also be responsible for making sure the beds of the Flood Control channels were clear, but that these were designed to be "self-scouring", and not much work was expected to be done in them by village crews.

Pukulis said the village is going to have to buy a tractor to keep the levees mowed.

The village is going to train its regular employees in the street and water departments, as well as some police officers, to respond to flood emergencies. The Ellenville project is designed to protect against floods up to the 100-year frequency. That means there is a 99 per cent chance in any given year that the Flood Control project will be sufficient to meet the village's flood needs.

As an example of the protection the project will afford to most of the village, Pukulis said the disastrous 1955 flood was a 25-year flood for Ellenville, and most of the damage to the village would have been avoided if the Flood Control Project had been completed then.

The village crews who will be handling the maintenance of the project required of the village were present for the afternoon meeting Tuesday.

"When you get high water you have to know what to do with it (the project)," said Pukulis.

The southwestern section of Ellenville is not protected by the Flood Control Project, but it will be if Phase II of the project goes through. Pukulis said a letter from the DEC had been received prior to the Tuesday meeting asking the village to indicate if it was still interested in going ahead with Phase II, and this is expected to be discussed at the village board meeting Monday night.

Pukulis said as far as he knew the board was still interested in Phase II, and would request the DEC to come back to Ellenville in the near future to see what the village's share of the project would be.

Pukulis said he "informally" inquired about the status of additional Flood Control protection for the sewage treatment plant and was informed that a feasibility report from the Corps of Engineers should be arriving in "three to four weeks."

KINGSTON
Eleven of Ulster County's 23 standing committees will have new chairmen in 1974, according to an announcement made recently by Chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8).

Named to head the Community College Committee is new Legislator Stephen G. Hyatt, (R-Dist. 2) former principal of the J. Watson Bailey School in Kingston. He replaces Brian R. White (R-Dist. 8) in the post. White has been appointed instead to head the Public Health Committee which has had former Legislator Melvin Mones as its chairman.

The Social Service Committee, formerly led by defeated (R-Dist. 8) who replaces former independent candidate Douglas V. Dye, will have Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 5) as its new chairman. The program for the Aging Committee will be headed by Louis H. Bevier (R-Dist. 8) as chairman. Bevier is leadership of the Judicial and assignments and appoint legislators to committees of their choice whenever possible. He said that if any legislator has "an extremely strong objection to serving one of the committees to which he has been appointed," he must not replace former Legislator Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2) until then, Savago will not of the Data Processing Committee; Palen will head the Firemanic and Civil Defense Committee of which former Legislator Alex. J. Nirenberg is chairman and Charles Scala (R-Dist. 1) replaces Nace as chairman of the Operational Efficiency Committee. Scala, who was chairman of the Veterans' Committee will be replaced by Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist. 6) as chairman of a newly combined Veterans' and Coroner and Sealer Committee. As yet Savago has not named anyone to the Conference and Seminar Committee chairman, ship or committee. Announcement will be made if he decides to continue the work of that committee.

Ellenville Mall Meeting Is Scheduled Tonight

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE
A meeting on the proposed Market Street Mall in Ellenville between the members of the Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency (URA), its accountant, engineer, and attorney, and two representatives of the agency's planning consultant has been set for tonight.

The agency, at its last board meeting, decided to go ahead with getting preliminary design concepts and cost estimates on the mall, but before the meeting to have whatever engineer was designated and engineer is hired come up with the studies begun, a meeting was to be held with the planners.

The planners, Daniel Shuster and Richard Harrall of Raymond, Parish, and Pine, White Plains planning firm, will be in attendance for the executive session to answer any questions the agency members have about the mall before the studies begin, according to URA Director Robert Peck.

The URA voted at the last meeting to have whatever manent mall will be permanently closed off to traffic. A recent decision by State Supreme Court Justice DeForest Pitt held that URA had "some discretion" in deciding what type of mall it would be, but seemed to indicate that the agency had to go ahead with some type of mall. Agency members Robert Woodhouse and Louis Shore said at the last meeting that the agency might not have a mall at all on Market Street if it wanted to go through the procedure of getting a U.S.

Department of Housing and Urban Development approved major plan change. The planners themselves have already proposed a convertible mall, Peck said more detailed concepts and cost estimates were needed before the agency could make any decision. Peck said Monday he will also be advertising this week or next for bids on a major public improvements contract involving the widening of three streets, new sidewalks and curbs, relocation of utilities, and drainage work in the village. The bids will be opened about 30 days after the ads appear.

This project was bid last year, but the one bid received had to be rejected because the agency had not yet received its amandatory grant, and could not pay for the work.

money would be lost unless the URA could suggest a substitution which would be approved by HUD and the people of Ellenville, and would stand up under an environmental impact assessment by HUD.

Peck said Monday he will also be advertising this week or next for bids on a major public improvements contract involving the widening of three streets, new sidewalks and curbs, relocation of utilities, and drainage work in the village. The bids will be opened about 30 days after the ads appear.

This project was bid last year, but the one bid received had to be rejected because the agency had not yet received its amandatory grant, and could not pay for the work.

The legislature chairman, in a letter to members of the county board also pointed out that he has attempted to equalize the Committee. Lasher.

Saugerties Board Approves Services

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Board of Education approved earlier this week a list of five services to be contracted with the Ulster County BOCES during the 1974-75 school year.

The services include training for 75 vocational education students, participation in the BOCES cooperative bidding for bread for school cafeterias, data processing services, including a new student ranking service, a senior seminar program, and special instruction for trainable students at the BOCES center and educable students in the Kingston school district.

The board also approved a request from Daniel Lee, high school principal, for BOCES computer terminal service for advanced math and physics curricula.

An election in which non-professional staff members (clerks, cafeteria workers, and teacher aides) will determine if they are to be represented by the Civil Service Employees Association had to be postponed last week due to bad weather. The board rescheduled the election for Feb. 1.

The board named Norman Bolinder, principal of Riccardi Elementary School in Glasco, to be acting superintendent of schools in the absence of Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, who is ill. Bolinder will serve until Dr. Arnold returns to the post.

John O'Rourke, head of the board's Budget Committee, said he would meet with administrators to discuss their budget requests for next year. O'Rourke said his committee would make every effort to hold down a tax increase for the district. Gerald Snyder, business manager, noted that fuel costs to the district had increased 40 per cent in recent months.

On the recommendation of the Personnel Committee, the board approved a maternity leave of absence for Jane T. Petersen, a teacher at Mt. Marion Elementary School. Ann S. Bergin returns to Mt. Marion School from maternity leave, replacing F. Tor Gudmundsen, who held the art teaching post in her absence. Walter Karch, a teacher at Cahill School, resigned for reasons of health, and Mrs. Margaret H. Luley was named to replace him. Anna M. Morgan was named a music teacher at Cahill School. James Richards was named head of the Industrial Arts Department at the junior-senior high school for two years, and Donald Farris was named a driver education teacher at the high school, replacing Leon McLaughlin, who is retiring. Todd Hackett, a high school student, was named cameraman to take pictures at school athletic events.

The board's next regular meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 11, in the Mt. Marion Elementary School.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 16, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The oil barons are pulling strings in Washington for drilling rights to spring a leak in the Navy's Alaskan oil reserves.

At stake is the future of an oil field, which nearly equals the size of all other known U.S. reserves, combined. Located under Alaska's north slope, it is listed on the books as Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4 but is known to oilmen everywhere simply as "Pet 4."

The oilmen would like to put their rigs three miles closer to the rich reserve, which would probably enable them to tap into the Navy's oil. To accommodate them, the Bureau of Land Management has raised a boundary dispute in an attempt to pry the desired area away from Navy control.

BLM's top spokesman, in the secret meetings over the boundary claim is Interior Undersecretary John Whitaker, who came to the Nixon Administration from Standard Oil of California. His former company has been charged with illegally draining the Navy's reserve at Elk Hills, Calif.

But the oil crowd has an even more potent friend in the Pentagon. He is Deputy Secretary of Defense William Clements, also a former oil industry executive, who established and, for a time, headed the task force dealing with military oil decisions.

In a memo intended strictly for official eyes, one of Clements' consultants, oil executive John A. Hammack, recommended "that the Navy should place NPR No. 4 into the federal lands program in order that it can be developed by the petroleum industry."

Argued the memo: "The Navy has neither the capital resources, the manpower, the expertise, nor the experience to aggressively explore NPR No. 4. I believe NPR No. 4 should be explored by the petroleum industry."

Clements is a $100 million stockholder and former chairman of SEDCO, a Dallas drilling firm. Representative John Moss, D-Calif., has called for his resignation, because of SEDCO's potential involvement in the Alaskan oil scramble. SEDCO is readying a bid for some of the construction rights on the Alaskan pipeline and many of its client firms are participating in the project.

CREDIT SNOOPS: Several weeks ago, we published a detailed report on the operations of the credit investigators, who file 100 million reports a year on those seeking insurance, bank loans, credit cards and other services.

The Federal Trade Commission has now moved in on the biggest of the back-fence firms, Retail Credit Company. The gigantic, Atlantic-based company has been charged with a variety of shady practices, all of which it has denied.

Meanwhile, the complaints have continued to pour into us, the FTC and the Senate. Here are a few typical examples, with the names omitted of those who don't want to be identified:

Charles K. Herbert of Stewartstown, Pa., who easily qualified for seven other credit cards, was turned down by BankAmericard. He learned that the York, Pa., Credit Bureau had informed BankAmericard that Herbert was weighing on a $20.57 debt at a local department store. In fact, it was a different man with a similar name. Yet BankAmericard, without so much as a phone call to Herbert, rejected his application.

HIRED LAWYERS

A Chicago teacher was turned down for credit because of a supposed $54 debt. It was another mistaken identity case, but the teacher had to get lawyers to write the credit agency a letter before the records finally were cleaned two years later.

A Washington medical equipment dealer was rejected by his own bank and a department store on the grounds he had deserted his wife. The "deserted" woman was someone he had never heard of.

A Tennessean received a notice that his four-year-old son was being refused credit.

When aggrieved victims try to correct their records, the results often are harrowing. An Oregonian made six calls to a credit agency and was put on "hold" for a total of 65 minutes. When he finally heard a human voice on the third evening, he was told: "Everyone has gone home."

DOESN'T KNOW WHY

A Nebraska wrote similarly: "I've spent probably... ten dollars on phone calls, have had substantial rate increases on insurance policies on all three cars and... am just as far from learning the reasons as I was ten days ago."

From Seattle, E. N. Deane wrote us that he observes three "golden rules" in handling credit snoops. Rule one, he says, is to "shut up when anyone calls to ask questions about neighbors." Rule two: "Ask neighbors to observe this rule." And rule three: "Do not answer personal or impertinent questions about yourself, other than name, address, age and place of employment."

Because credit reports go out to airlines, banks, insurance companies and countless other businesses, Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., have demanded that the credit bureaus give copies of all written reports to the credit applicants so mistakes can be corrected. Their bill has been blocked so far by Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., a bank director's son.

FOOTNOTE: The Credit Bureau of York told us they go beyond the requirements of present law and allow those investigated to see their entire files. A spokesman said the error on Herbert was quickly corrected. But as so often is the case, the damage already had been done.

Following Nixon's Example

Now who does Mrs. Winston P. Evans of Spokane, Wash., think she is?

For that matter who does comedian Jack Benny think he is?

Both, apparently, think they are the President of the United States—or at least as important as the President.

Since the preamble to the Constitution says all men are created equal—and presumably this includes women too—they have a good argument.

Mrs. Evans and Mr. Benny came in the news recently as a result of revelations that they—like President Nixon—are seeking tax writeoffs.

Mr. Nixon two years ago paid a federal tax equivalent to that of the head of a family of four earning about $8,000 a year. This came about through his donation to the government of his vice presidential papers on which a value of a half-million had been placed.

Subsequent to that it was announced he would deed the Western White House at San Clemente to the government and thus save himself another huge chunk of tax money.

Enter Jack Benny, who attained his fame as a comedian. Except in this instance he wasn't joking. In the late 60s he turned over a collection of 30 years in the entertainment business to the University of California.

The miscellaneous assortment of radio and television scripts, tapes and other memorabilia was appraised at $154,000, a figure that the star applied to his income tax. But the Internal Revenue Service took a dim view of the proceedings and sought to collect more than $100,000 in back taxes.

Mr. Benny's defense was simple. He said his donation was similar to the gift of the Nixon papers to the National Archives.

It is open to question whether the famous Benny quips, one-liners and puns are worth the same place in history accorded the Nixon papers. Nevertheless the comedian has made a point. He has dramatically demonstrated the long overdue need for tax reform to close loopholes and restore equity to the system.

The action by the Spokane woman adds emphasis to the situation. Hers is only a $12,000 two-story frame house as compared with the President's $1.5 million estate. But in her mind the principle is the same if she wants to deed it to the government.

"If he can do it and get a tax write-off," she asked the Internal Revenue Service, "why can't the average taxpayer?"

The IRS has not yet answered that question but it certainly has some explaining to do.

A 1969 tax law forbids deductions for papers donated after July 25 of that year. President Nixon allegedly claimed a $95,000 deduction for papers not placed under the control of the National Archives until November. Yet the IRS, after a brief examination, disposed of all issues in the President's favor.

So loopholes still exist in the tax law. It is imperative that Congress move quickly to eliminate them.

Unbalanced Diet

It is shocking to learn that market analysts have advised the food industry that the typical consumer is unbalanced in her opinion of her own and her family's diet. You can't actually depend upon what she says on questionnaires or in interviews about it.

For instance, the typical American mother wants to believe that her family eats the nutritious three squares a day, but actually she knows that they do not. Her guilt feelings about this unhealthy state of affairs keep her from facing the facts about what they do and don't eat, as she feels herself responsible.

Dr. Paul A. Fine, a psychological consultant to major food companies, has become convinced that Americans, with their constant snacking, eat 20 unbalanced partial meals, instead of the three main meals upon which their healthy forebears depended for strength and sustenance.

Fine says most don't eat breakfast at all, others eat cereals, largely sugared, family dinner is a 20-minute affair and only three days a week, children reject vegetables for soft drinks and salted chips, burgers, franks and pizzas. Their eating habits are a mess.

The homemaker, who knows more about nutrition than her ancestors ever did, finds herself unequal to and in despair over the TV ads which have brainwashed her children.

If we want a new generation strong and bright and equal to taking over this great country, we are going to have to get HEW on the job and turn to the schools to educate children why they should eat properly and what they are doing to their bodies and their minds by not doing so.

Rationing Backlash

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While the Nixon administration ponders pros and cons of coupon gasoline rationing, a bitter truth is dawning on the White House: anti-rationing sentiment has risen so sharply that Congress might reject a presidential request for it.

Congressmen who left Washington Dec. 22 for a month-long recess were unprepared for the backlash to the standby rationing plan unveiled by energy czar William Simon. Thus, even if Mr. Nixon requests authorization of rationing, he might not get passage until mid-April. Indeed, if the present tide keeps running, he might not get it at all.

The anti-rationing backlash has been generated partly by interested business groups, including retail automobile dealers. But the Nixon administration must share the responsibility. From President Nixon down, policymakers have referred to rationing as a horrible last resort almost too dreadful to confront. Now that chances are better than 50-50 that Mr. Nixon will go to rationing after all, his own words come home to haunt him.

If American voters only weeks ago were willing to accept gasoline rationing in time of crisis, Congressmen returning home for the recess found that spirit of sacrifice evaporated. In its place is rising — and heated — opposition to Simon's standby plan for a 32-gallon-per-month limit.

A sampler of grass roots testing: in the Shreveport, La., area, Democratic Rep. Joe Waggoner got an earful of anti-rationing talk from owners of roadside restaurants, auto dealers and just plain drivers. On Maryland's Eastern Shore, gas station operators have been bombarding Republican Rep. Robert Bauman with anti-rationing arguments. Around Moline, Ill., members of the United Auto Workers who work in the city but live in the country tell Republican Rep. Thomas Railsback that Simon's plan would keep them from work.

A final example: in Macomb County, Mich., containing industrial suburbs of Detroit, Democratic Rep. James O'Hara, during luncheon meetings of the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary this week, was surprised by unanimous anti-rationing sentiment. Worse, he was positively stunned by overriding skepticism that any true energy crisis exists. As of now, O'Hara would vote against rationing.

The auto dealers, watching their lots full of gas-guzzling '74 white elephants, have persistently buttonholed Congressmen from coast to coast over the last two weeks. Whether this constitutes a nationally coordinated drive, few Congressmen have escaped haranguing by local auto dealers contending that coupon rationing would be the last straw breaking the once-strong back of all those gas guzzlers.

Far more mysterious — and somewhat ominous — is the mood Congressmen now privately define as mass hysteria: the conviction by ordinary citizens that the energy crisis is a hoax perpetrated by big oil for higher profits and by Mr. Nixon to drown Watergate. Once that devil theory is accepted, the need for rationing or any other emergency measure is automatically discounted — one of Simon's most serious worries today.

Overlying all this is the role of the administration itself. President Nixon has missed no public opportunity to relate the horrors of rationing (describing it as "something the American people would resent very, very much"). Simon, far preferring an unobtainable high federal gasoline tax, has sounded much the same note.

Even some administration officials assume this doom-day rhetoric damns rationing. But in truth, chances are better than even that Mr. Nixon will have to swallow it. Simon's litmus test is whether the time-consuming gas station queues continue or worsen. Thus, one highly placed administration official flatly predicts rationing will be necessary if the Arab embargo is not ended by Feb. 1 — an unlikely development.

Mr. Nixon's advisors now fear a Feb. 1 call for gas rationing would be delayed at least two months and, if Congressmen continue to hear grass roots hostility, might never pass. Few of his aides would urge the President to impose rationing with the dubious statutory authority he now has.

Simon's task is not enviable. Having described the horrors of rationing, he may now have to sell the necessity. More to the point, he must convince Americans that the energy crisis is real and not another dirty trick, and he must do it without much help from the Oval Office. Nothing better underscores the crisis of a President without credibility than the developing fiasco over gas rationing.

Short Treatise on Homosexuality

The homosexual has emerged from the closet. This is a good thing for many reasons. He was always there; the heterosexual world chose to shun him as a sexual leper. He is traceable to the times of the pharaohs and beyond.

In New York, he demands equal rights, claiming that he is discriminated against in an unlawful manner; he cannot become a fireman or a policeman, for example. Nor does he do well among the hard hats.

The secret sorrow of the homosexual is that he is not in conflict with himself, but everyone else is. He is as powerless to deny his magnetism to his own sex as you are to the opposite sex.

The world of psychology has, at last, decided that homosexuality is not "a psychiatric disorder." Dr. Robert L. Spitzer, psychiatrist at Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons, stated the case succinctly:

"The condition must either cause subjective distress or be associated with generalized impairment in social effectiveness or functioning. Clearly, homosexuality per se does not meet these requirements."

Thus it is not an illness, something which can be cured or made contemptible. And yet, if the majority will prevails — as it must — then heterosexuality will continue to be the normal reproductive state and homosexuality the abnormal.

Yet the homosexual is no more abnormal than the asexual, who has no interest in either sex. Some psychiatrists believe that all human beings fall into varying degrees of masculinity and femininity, from zero to 100.

This means that the major body of humans is heterosexual to an indefinable percentage point. A wife and mother may be 80 per cent heterosexual, and wonder why, at times, she is more than casually attracted to a woman friend. Men in public rest rooms tend to conceal their parts with their hands. Why? Do they fear other men?

The studies of Dr. Kinsey, and Masters and Johnson indicate that the youthful sometimes daily at a homosexual relationship, only to give it up as their heterosexual instincts become stronger.

The 100 per cent male, if such exists, could be as obnoxious as the 100 per cent ascetic. However, the male or female whose instincts are 50 per cent or more allied with the opposite sex must have homosexual desires which cannot be repressed or appreciably altered. Psychiatry has tried to change homosexuals into heterosexuals, but the reversal rate is minuscule.

Most aberrationists would have us believe that the number of homosexuals is high and that permitting them to emerge from the closet will increase the rate. As near as I can determine by research, the rate in all nations is about 2 per cent.

This leads to a serious question: can you create a homosexual by seduction? I don't believe so; the instinctive structure of the mind is too strong, too demanding, to be altered.

Some believe that homosexuality is genetic in origin; I don't because that would place it among the inherited faculties. My suspicion is that a homosexual is made by early rejection of a parent of the same sex. Or, put another way, a vicious unloving parent of the same sex can bring a small, normal percentage of homosexuality to full flower.

Dr. Howard Brown, an able Health Services Administrator in New York, resigned because he could no longer bear the fear that his homosexuality would be discovered. Last year, Jewish homosexuals organized Temple Beth Chayim Chadashim in Los Angeles.

In New York, a young professor organized Beth Simchat Torah. It has a membership of 95 men, four women. For the first time, they feel that they can worship without being treated with contempt.

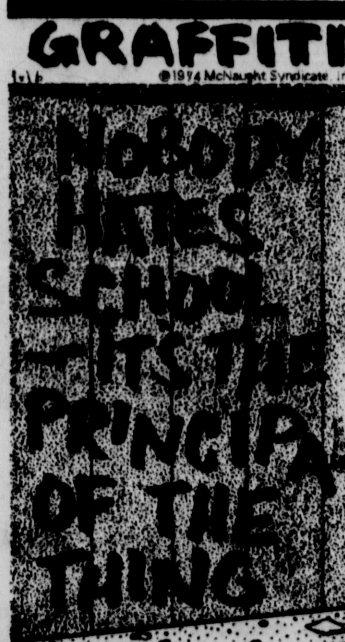

When I was very young, it was fashionable to trap homosexuals, and beat them and rob them. I was a distinguished Christian indeed. Now I know that I had no more right to look upon them with contempt than they had to try to seduce me. The day may come when we can look upon these people with as much tolerance as we accord the color-blind who cannot appreciate the beauty of the rose...

The Price Is Chilling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Last Dec. 1, an independent dealer in the Chicago area was selling home heating oil at 28½ cents a gallon. Today, the same dealer is charging 35 cents a gallon.

That's an increase of almost 23 per cent in six weeks. It reflects the situation throughout the country, according to a spot check of trade associations. Home heating oil prices have risen sharply in the last month, and industry spokesmen say they'll probably rise some more in the future.

In fact, some spokesmen say it may cost you twice as much to heat your home this winter as it did last year. In dollars and cents, the increases can boost your yearly heating bill by $100 or more, depending on how much oil you use and who your supplier is.

If you were lucky enough to have a supplier who is getting domestic oil, you may not be hit too hard. If, however, your dealer depends on imported oil, you'd better be prepared for a real wallop.

The increases will more than offset any monetary savings you might get from turning down your thermostat six degrees in accordance with federal energy regulations that take effect today.

Annual imports of heating oil refined abroad have risen sharply from a negligible amount five years ago to an estimated 150 million barrels in 1973. That's more than 10 per cent of last year's total supply, according to the National Fuel Oil Institute.

Institute figures show that imported heating oil at the wholesale level cost about four times as much in December as it did in June 1973. There have been similar price increases in heating oil refined in the United States from imported crude oil. The sharp rise is due principally to big increases in the taxes and royalties collected by the governments of oil producing countries. Domestic crude oil also has risen in price, but not nearly as much.

That means wide variations in price. In some areas, one household — using domestic oil — can pay 40 per cent less for heating oil than the consumer next door who is supplied with foreign oil. And it makes it almost impossible to come up with a nationwide average cost.

A spokesman for the National Fuel Oil Institute said domestic oil should average about 24 cents a gallon. But consumers getting foreign oil may pay 40 cents a gallon.

Ehrlichman Optimistic

SEATTLE (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, whose friends have started a trust fund to help pay for his legal expenses, is struggling to re-establish himself with a law practice specializing in environmental affairs.

Ehrlichman resigned as chief domestic adviser to President Nixon last spring in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Since then he has created a four-person Land Use Group designed to advise real estate developers on environmental protection laws. He also handles other unspecified legal business.

Ehrlichman talked about his current activities and the dozen legal actions pending against him during an exclusive two-hour interview Monday.

He said, "Knowing what I know about the facts, I think I've got good reason to be optimistic."

Ehrlichman would not discuss his legal expenses but said in answer to a question:

"There's a trust fund that has been created. Some people have come forward in order to help out. Up to this point, there has been no active solicitation, but there have been some voluntary contributions."

He faces 10 civil suits, as well as criminal charges in Los Angeles in connection with the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. And there remains the potential for criminal charges stemming from Watergate-related probes in Washington, D.C.

Ehrlichman would not say what he and special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski discussed in Washington last week. But he labeled as untrue a Los Angeles Times story that said Ehrlichman was offered a deal in return for cooperation in Watergate prosecutions.

Ehrlichman said he still expects the White House tapes, which he stressed he has not heard, will vindicate him of charges in the Ellsberg case. Ellsberg was acquitted in the Pentagon papers trial.

Ehrlichman, 48, lived here before joining the Nixon campaign in 1968 and serving a subsequent four-year White House subdued than in a news conference last August on the subject of President Nixon's prospects for fully recovering from the effects of the scandals.

Ehrlichman said in August, just after testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee, that the administration would recover any lost "force and vitality" within weeks.

Asked if he thinks the administration can still recover, he said:

"I think it could have at that time. I think there have been some intervening and super-seding events that have made it now more difficult, but I still think it can be done."

"Public support is a very fickle thing. It has its ups and downs. Congressional reaction is very volatile. The moods of the City of Washington are subject to extreme swings from one to the other, and I see them. I've seen it swing both ways, very fast."

"So I really don't think that I'm being unrealistically optimistic in saying that it could happen."

Fear Over Missile Testing

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — The Air Force hopes to convince residents of the Pacific Northwest that the sky, or anything the military puts in it, won't fall as a result of a missile testing program.

At stake in the public relations campaign is $26.9 million the Air Force wants from Congress to test-fire four unarmed Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles from Montana bases next winter.

The test would see four of the weapons flash across the skies of Montana, Idaho and Oregon. Congressmen and other officials in the three states have expressed fear that chunks of the weapons could fall on the heads of their constituents.

At a briefing Monday, the Air Force presented charts and data designed to ease any worries about Chicken Little happenings.

Maj. Gen. John W. Pauly, who heads the project, said probability of public injury is virtually nonexistent.

Data indicates the Air Force could launch 5,000 Minuteman missiles at the cost of one human injury, and he said that injury would not necessarily be fatal.

He also said previous tests have proved the missile to be reliable.

Plans for the tests were announced last month in Washington, D.C. A Pentagon spokesman said successful launchings by combat missile crews could influence Soviet attitudes on nuclear arms limitations.

In Monday's briefing at Malmstrom Air Force Base, a spokesman said officers would not discuss political implications of the program.

Malmstrom, near Great Falls, is the hub of a complex of 200 Minuteman II missiles buried in silos throughout central Montana.

The Minuteman II weapons were selected instead of the multiwarhead Minuteman III because of proven reliability, officers said.

Pauly said procedures were built into the tests to insure safety.

Missoula, Mont., with a population of 35,000, is the largest city within the corridor over which missiles would pass. Computations show no missile would pass closer than 10 miles from Missoula and at an altitude of about 40 miles, spokesmen said.

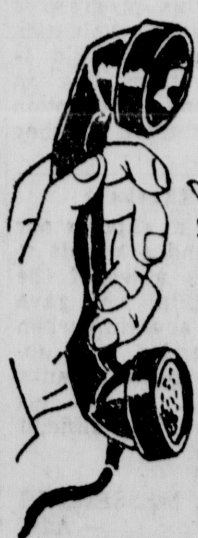

Each missile would drop a 4,800-pound, first-stage booster and four 60-pound panels, all calculated to fall on the dense Idaho forests.

Officers said the second stage would drop into the Pacific Ocean about 690 miles off the coast. The target area for the unarmed warheads is far out in the ocean southwest of Hawaii.

Officials said that, should it be necessary to destroy a missile in flight, the explosion could be timed so fragments would not fall on populated areas.

Pauly said 10 operational silos are being considered for the tests. He said that, until selection is narrowed to four, it would be impossible to say with certainty what the flight paths would be.

Who, Where, What, When...Why?

Who comes to mind in discussions of press credibility? You, our readers, that's who. Where is credibility mandatory? In these pages, that's where. When? Every day. Why? Because this newspaper's mission is to help you open a window to the world with factual, balanced and meaningful information you can depend on.

"Press credibility" is nothing new. It's been our business for a very long time...and it's been the business of our news cooperative, The Associated Press, for 125 years.

We're a member of The AP, world's largest news-gathering organization, and AP newsmen and newswomen go far for factual, on-the-scene reports.

One AP man, Mark Kellogg, went all the way to the Little Big Horn River, in 1876, with Gen. George Armstrong Custer—and Kellogg didn't come back, either.

That's just one indication of how long "press credibility" has been important to newspapermen.

State Motorists to Save $110 Million on No-Fault

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The no-fault law which goes into effect Feb. 1 should save motorists in the state $110 million a year, the Insurance Department said Tuesday in a report to the governor.

The individual savings, mandated by the no-fault law passed by the 1973 legislature, would average $15 per vehicle, although reductions may vary from very little to more than $150, the report said.

Series at Stone Ridge

SONTE RIDGE — "America," the award-winning television series written and narrated by Alistair Cooke, will be shown at the Stone Ridge Library beginning Jan. 22.

The series which won four Emmy Awards and a Peabody Award will be shown the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month in 13 episodes through July.

The 13 showings will include, in order: The New Found Land, Home Away From Home, Making a Revolution, Inventing a Nation, Gone West, A Firebell in the Night, Domesticating a Wilderness, Money on the Land, The Huddled Masses, The Promise Fulfilled and the Promise Broken, The Arsenal, The First Impact, and The More Abundant Life.

The films of the series have been made available to the Stone Ridge Library through the Mid-Hudson Library System, which serves three libraries in the Mid-Hudson area.

Program Rescheduled

Due to inclement weather last Friday, it was not possible for the Hurley Library to get delivery of the films scheduled to be shown Saturday, Jan. 12. The program has been rescheduled 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 19 at the Hurley School, weather permitting. Films to be shown are Apollo 10—To Sort Out the Unknown and Land of the Loon. Elementary school children of the area may attend.

The law mandates a premium reduction of 15 per cent from the current rate charged for bodily injury liability and medical payments coverage and an additional 5 per cent rate cut if the car owner elects to buy $200 deductible.

The department found, however, that the average reduction would be about 19.2 per cent. The report said insurance companies can make refunds directly to the insured motorist or can make a refund or a credit to the customer at the next anniversary of the policy.

Under the no-fault system, New Yorkers must continue to purchase $10,000 bodily injury insurance per person and $20,000 for all persons hurt in a single accident and must also purchase no-fault benefits for in-state driving up to $50,000 per person.

In case of an accident, medical benefits are paid without limit if they are ascertainable within one year after the accident.

An accident victim cannot sue to recover for general damages unless his medical expenses exceed $500.

Mobile Homes State Code Now in Effect

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state's first code governing the construction and installation of mobile homes went into effect Tuesday.

Lee Goodwin, state housing commissioner and chairman of the state Building Code Council, said the new law covers portable units designed and built without a permanent foundation for year-round living.

The new code was adopted by the council and will be administered by the state Division of Housing and Community Renewal. It establishes the same type of protection for the health, safety and welfare of the occupants of mobile homes that residents of other types of housing receive under the state's building construction code.

Woodstock Club Seeks Candidates

WOODSTOCK — Alvin E. Moscovitz, president of the Rotary Club of Woodstock, has announced that the club is seeking young men and women in the Woodstock area as candidates for Rotary Foundation educational awards for study abroad in 1975-76.

The Foundation offers four types of educational awards: graduate fellowships, for those who have received a bachelor's degree or equivalent and are between the ages of 20 and 28; undergraduate scholarships for those with a minimum of two years of university level work and who are between the ages of 18 to 24; technical training awards for those with a secondary education and at least two years' working experience and who are the age 21 to 35; awards to teachers of the handicapped, for those who have been engaged as full-time teachers of the mentally, physically or educationally handicapped for at least two years at the time of application and are the age 25 to 50.

Each award includes round-trip transportation, educational and living expenses for one academic year, and funds for intensive language training, if necessary.

In 1947, the Foundation started its programs of sending young adults abroad for study and since that time, the Foundation has awarded more than $17.5 million for its various programs. More than 6,000 young men and women have gone to foreign countries for a year of study. As a non-profit organization, The Rotary Foundation is supported by voluntary contributions from Rotarians, Rotary clubs, and friends of Rotary in 150 different countries.

Past Rotary Foundation awards in the Woodstock area have been granted to three residents who studied in Sweden and Australia.

Further information about the awards is available from Moscovitz, 47 Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock, telephone 679-6525. The application deadline is March 15.

Registration Urged At Rondout Valley

KYSERIKE — Spring — and school district elections — may seem a long way off in these snowy winter days, but it is not too early for voter registration in the Rondout Valley Central School District, where lagging voter turnout in recent elections is causing concern.

The district's four elementary schools are open for registration purposes during school hours every day school is in session, according to Superintendent of Schools Robert A. Robertaccio.

Association Schedules Crime Sessions

NEW PALTZ — Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons, has scheduled four February meetings on crime prevention.

The meetings, to be chaired by Ms. Florence Ellison, will be held in the Inter-County Savings Bank in New Paltz beginning at 1 p.m., and will be followed by question and answer periods.

On Feb. 4, guest speakers will be William Slover, deputy chief of police, Kingston, and John F. Taylor, director of public safety, Town of New Paltz, who will speak on street crime.

On Feb. 11 a representative of the New York State Police will speak on "Invitation to Burglary." A film on the same topic will be shown.

On Feb. 18, Ellen Donovan, first assistant district attorney of Ulster County, will speak on criminal fraud. A film, "On Guard — Bimco" will be shown.

On Feb. 25, the subject will be community-police relations. The speakers will be Prof. Theodore Dietz, teacher of police science at Ulster County Community College, and John F. Taylor.

At the last AARP meeting, Walter Czubay, a retired astronomer, discussed the eclipse he prepared for the chapter, which falls under the sign of Aquarius. Czubay predicted a favorable year ahead for the chapter.

The traditional family Dutch treat dinner will be held on Sunday, Jan. 20 at the Overlook Inn on Route 9W in West Park. Dorothy Galani, accordionist, will furnish music for the dinner. Further information may be had by calling Mrs. Florence Bowman in Enosus.

There are still a few accommodations for anyone wishing to see "Giel" and arrangements may be made with Mrs. Elsie Lorenzo in Highland. Checks with reservations must be received in advance. Reservations will leave Simmons Plaza in New Paltz on the first available Wednesday.

The chapter is also considering a charter bus trip to New York City for the Radio City Easter Show with the film "Mame."

Home Alarm System 'Important'

KERHONKSON — The importance of the Kerhons-Accord First Aid Squad's newly purchased home alarm system was demonstrated vividly in January, 1973, when 41 squad members were at the scene of a disaster call at the Pine Grove Ranch within 16 minutes.

The rapid response was made possible by "plectron" units in each active member's home. One call from central headquarters reached 41 members simultaneously. Previously, each member had to be called individually.

This was one of the highlights of a review of the Kerhons-Accord units activities during the past year. During the year the squad also initiated three standard first aid courses, one advanced course, and one CPR course. Gary Miller, David Skulnik, Roxella Baker and Esther Yeager have completed the Red Cross class and are now first aid instructors, and the squad now has three additional emergency medical technicians, bringing to 20 the number of members who have completed this training.

Four members of Post 122 are raising dinner had enabled the members of the First Aid Squad, becoming eligible at 17, the area, and they expressed their thanks to the public for a successful 1973 and expressed the hope that 1974 can be as helpful and successful for the community.

IBM Earnings for '73 Show 23 Per Cent Rise

ARMONK, N.Y. (AP) — International Business Machines Corp. reported today that preliminary earnings for 1973 were $1.58 billion or $10.79 a share, up about 23 per cent from $1.28 billion or $8.83 a share in 1972. Earnings for both years were adjusted for a 25 per cent stock split that took effect May 10, 1973.

IBM said that overseas operations, included in the company's consolidated results, showed a higher rate of increase than domestic operations "due in part to various currency fluctuations and realignments during the past year."

Consolidated gross income for 1973 rose to $10.99 billion from $9.53 billion the year before. Overseas gross income was $5.14 billion, an increase of $990.15 million from 1972. Frank T. Cary, chairman of the board, said worldwide installations reached a record peak in the final quarter of 1973, and "outright purchases of data processing equipment were also at an all-time high for any quarter, and were higher for the full year 1973 than for 1972."

Consolidated gross income from rentals and services increased 14.5 per cent during 1973, he added. The backlog of orders for IBM equipment and services was higher at year-end 1973 than at year-end 1972. "de- and 'outright purchases of data processing equipment were also at an all-time high for any quarter, and were higher for the full year 1973 than for 1972."

Search Underway for Weapon

LAKEWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Chautauque County authorities confirmed today they were searching for a hatchet or short-handled axe that may have been the weapon used to kill Daniel Ebersole.

The sheriff's office searched a barn near where the body of the 14-year-old boy was found Sunday. Metal detectors were used in the search. A preliminary hearing will be held in Buffalo Monday for three youths being held in the case to determine whether state or federal authorities will prosecute.

Commissioner Is Seeking Alternative to Storm King

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Environmental Conservation Commissioner James L. Biggame said today that he is "looking for a possible alternative" to the controversial Storm King power project in the Hudson River valley. Biggame said he opened "exploratory talks" with officials of Consolidated Edison Co. last week but that no agreement on an alternative was reached. "The next move is up to Con Ed," he said. Con Ed has been fighting for a decade to build a massive pumped-storage power project near Storm King Mountain, near Cornwall in one of the most scenic areas of the valley. The proposed project involves two huge reservoirs, which will be partially empty most of the time. Environmentalists have contended that the project would ruin the beauty of the area. Biggame said "this should not be interpreted as an effort to force them to stop the project," but he said he was concerned about Storm King and wanted to find an alternative. His concern, he said, focuses on two points: "the beauty of that section of the Hudson" and the long delays in getting the project started. "There is a need for more peak power in New York City," he said, and the project may be further delayed when its Federal Power Commission license expires in October. Pumped storage projects do not generate any new electricity, but they increase a utility's peak demand power by, in effect, storing excess electricity generated during periods of low demand. Excess electricity at low-demand periods is used to pump water into an upper reservoir, and during peak periods the water runs downhill to generate electricity.

Purse Snatching Being Probed

SAUGERTIES investigation is continuing today into an alleged purse snatching incident in Saugerties early Tuesday which reportedly netted a thief wearing a ski mask some $3,600. Village police said Mrs. Pearl Doyle, 64, of 206 Ulster Avenue told them she was attacked from behind as she was getting into her car on Teetsel Street at about 7:15 a.m. She said she was knocked to the ground and wrestled with her attacker, who ran off with her purse following a short struggle. The thief was described as wearing a ski mask and having dark hair. He was about five feet, five inches tall and was said to be of "chunky build."

Lawyer for Indians Opposes Jurors' List

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The list of potential jurors for the trial of Indians Dennis Banks and Russell Means is faulty because it doesn't include nonwhites and has too many rural persons and too few professionals, defense counsel claims. William Kunstler of New York, chief defense spokesman, filed a motion Tuesday with U.S. District Court Judge Fred Nichol seeking records pertaining to the selection of jury candidates. He said the slaying indicates "a sickness in our society."

The beaten body of the boy was found tied to a tree in a remote wooded area three miles from his home Sunday — five days after he was allegedly kidnapped. Memorial services for the boy are scheduled today at the Jamestown Unitarian Church following cremation in Buffalo. Lakewood village offices will close at 3:30 p.m. so the entire community can join in mourning. Deputy Mayor Cloise Swearingen ordered the closing, saying, "During the past few days, our village suffered a tragedy that many of us cannot and probably never will be able to understand."

Podiatrists Set Meeting

KINGSTON latest developments in foot care. Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who has credited podiatrists with alerting the public to the hazards of high platform shoes, will be a guest speaker at the 78th annual Clinical Conference of the Podiatry Society of the State of New York next month. This was announced here by Dr. Murray Greene of Kingston, president of the Society's Mid-Hudson Division, who said the conference will be held from Friday to Sunday, Feb. 22 to 24, at the New York Hilton Hotel in New York City. Nader will address the meeting at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Dr. Greene said the conference will bring together some 1,000 physicians and podiatrists from all parts of the country for a comprehensive series of lectures and seminars on the

The meeting also will review podiatry's participation in the Medicaid and Medicare programs as well as in proposed national health insurance plans being considered in Congress. Special emphasis will be on programs to alert the public to the hazards of over-the-counter foot remedies. Americans spend more than $100 million a year on these products. Many are worthless, others can cause serious foot problems. In a recent issue of "Ladies Home Journal" Nader observed that "modern women's shoe styles have outdated the old quip that it's your feet that hurt not your shoes," and suggested that in consulting a podiatrist the public should ask about the problems caused by current lectures and seminars on the

Repair Seminars

STONE RIDGE Three efficiency seminars for domestic oil burner repairmen are being offered the week of Jan. 21 by the Office of Continuing Education at Ulster County Community College at the Stone Ridge campus.

Registrations for each seminar are due at the college today.

Each seminar will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 21; Wednesday, Jan. 23, and Saturday, Jan. 26. Each seminar is a complete program and repairmen can attend the one most convenient for them.

The Office for Continuing Education is offering the seminars now because it feels repairmen will want to up-date their skills now when fuel shortages make it especially important to get the most efficient consumption of limited supplies, according to Associate Dean Ronald A. Koster.

The seminars will be conducted by Assistant Professor George E. Vizvary, a member of the Department of Engineering Technologies at the college. He is a graduate of the Road Industries training program for master oil burner technicians and has assumed responsibility for all course work in Heating in the College's Service Technician program.

Each eight-hour seminar will include combustion efficiency testing to attain optimum measurements on temperature, draft, smoke and CO2 readings. Also included will be extensive

HAROLD E. FINKLE

Kingston Man Is Named As Secretary

STAMFORD

Kirby Peake, chairman of the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills, has named Harold E. Finkle of Kingston to be secretary of the Commission.

Finkle, an investment counselor, is an ardent sportsman and has a long history of active public service in the Kingston area. He was named to the nine-member Commission on the recommendation of Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Woodstock and was an appointee of Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea.

A native of Haverstraw, Finkle moved to Kingston at the age of three and has resided here since. In February, 1946, after his discharge from the U.S. Army, he joined Chilsey, Newberry and Company, a Kingston investment firm, and remained there until the company was dissolved 22 years later. He then joined First Albany Corporation at its Kingston branch.

In 1973, Finkle was presented the "Volunteer of the Year" award of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association.

Finkle has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Kingston YMCA since 1965 and served as 1970-71 chairman of the annual fund drive of the Ulster County Heart Association. He and his wife, the former Marie Stafford, are the parents of three children.

Board Approves Subdivision

RED HOOK

The Red Hook Planning Board has conditionally approved development of a 19-lot subdivision that borders on Orlich and Norton Roads.

The approval followed a public hearing on the matter this week. There was no opposition at the hearing.

Conditions imposed by the town's planning board include conformity to regulations imposed by the Dutchess County Health Department, and satisfactory compliance with bonding requirements.

The developer is Sidney Diamond of Poughkeepsie. He intends to divide the 62-acre parcel into 17 three-acre lots and two one-acre lots for private homes. The development is to be known as Willow Farms.

Action on Questionnaire Is Urged

ALBANY Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) is urging all residents of his assembly district who have not yet returned the legislative questionnaire mailed from his office to do so at the earliest opportunity.

The questionnaire seeks the views of Ulster County citizens on a number of major issues facing the New York State Legislature this year and Bell has said it will serve as a good tool in guiding legislative action in 1974.

"Actually, the response to the questionnaire has been simply great," Bell said. "To date that response is running in excess of five per cent, and anything over a three per cent return is generally considered excellent. I would hope that within the next 10 days to two weeks we will be able to begin to compute the results."

Before then, however, I would like to hear from those who, for one reason or another, have not yet found time to fill out the questionnaire. It is important that I hear from as many of these persons as possible since many of the issues contained in the questionnaire are tied in closely with budget appropriations and it is expected that the legislature will be asked to consider the proposed 1974-75 executive budget in approximately two weeks."

Bell said he will report the questionnaire results as soon as possible after tabulation.

A committee report by Carpenter at the meeting revealed that plans are well formulated for the company's 20th anniversary celebration dinner to be held Saturday, March 23, at the Flamingo Restaurant. At that time some 25 active charter members will be honored.

IBM Employee Is Chairman

RHINEBECK

Arthur Carl, a 46-year-old IBM employee who once served as chairman of the Town of Rhinebeck Zoning Board of Appeals, has been appointed chairman of the town's planning board for 1974.

Carl replaces Robert Shackleton, who resigned as planning board chairman in December after the town board voted to reject Douglas Palermo's sprawling "Ferncliff" development on River Road. The Planning Board had given its approval to Palermo's project before it was vetoed by the town board.

The Palermo controversy also led to the resignation of planning board member John von der Leith. The town board has yet to fill that vacancy.

Carl served as chairman of the zoning board of appeals in 1971 and 1972. He resigned from the board in June, 1972 because of business pressures.

Yerry Elected To 20th Term As KHA Head

KINGSTON Gardens, 60 families at Wiltwyck Gardens, 131 families at Rondout Gardens, 15 families in the Rehabilitation Housing and one family in the Leased Housing program, for a total of 337 families. Of this total, 60 units are for two persons senior citizen occupancy, 104 units for one person senior citizen occupancy and 173 units for standard family occupancy. There were 190 units under state jurisdiction and 147 units under federal jurisdiction and combined, are presently accommodating 992 persons.

The total development cost of all state developments amount to $2,910,000 and $3,311,000 for all federal projects which include the rehabilitation housing for a total development cost in excess to $6,200,000.

During 1973 only 14 families moved from Colonial Gardens compared to an average of 30 in other years. Three tenants moved from Colonial Gardens. Addition, two tenants from Wiltwyck Gardens and 23 tenants from Rondout Gardens. As of Dec. 31, all rents and charges have been collected and no tenant was in arrears in any unit operated by the authority.

Yerry said the authority is proud its achievements, in being a pioneer by initiating urban renewal, neighborhood community center facilities and improvement programs, middle income housing, family and senior citizens public housing, as well as establishing the Senior Citizen Advisory Council for Ulster County.

Yerry recalled that the authority has provided service for more than 3,000 persons who have resided in its projects for the past 20 years or more. He said the authority is particularly proud of the fact that it has never lost one cent in uncollected rents or charges.

Among those in attendance at the meeting in the Holiday Inn were: John O'Rourke and Fred Hecht of the New York State Division of Housing, Joseph Monticicchio of the Department of Housing, and Urban Development, Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Alderman-at-large T. Robert Gallo, Majority Leader of the Common Council Peter Mancuso and Minority Leader Brian Smith. Also former mayors, Edwin Radel and Oscar Newkirk and former commissioners of the authority, Max Mones, Surrogate Judge Arthur Davis Jr., Edward Conger and James DeCicco.

Describing the operations of the authority during 1973, Yosman said that as of Dec. 31 the authority had in occupancy 130 families at Colonial

We Get Letters

January 12, 1974

Editor Kingston Daily Freeman 3 Broadway Kingston, N.Y. 12401

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the members of PACT (Parents and Children Together), I would like to express my special thanks to Mrs. Dorothy Narel, Women's Page Editor of the FREEMAN for helping us inform the people of Ulster County about some of the situations and practices that exist in adoption and Foster Care today.

Through the articles we are establishing a rapport with the community. We have received several inquiries and directed prospective volunteer workers and parents to the child caring agency. We have endeavored to answer to the best of our knowledge questions put to PACT concerning Adoption Subsidy and the new Adoption Standards and there has been a renewed effort by all to share information in hopes of helping others. Already two area families are interested in "waiting children" located in the picture-profile Adoption Exchange Books.

PACT commends the FREEMAN for taking an interest in this issue which is so vital today but is rarely given space in the nation's newspapers.

Yours truly
MR. JOHN A. LOCKE,

(Master Portraits)

Representing Hadassah At Conference

The National Board of Hadassah normally meets for its Mid-Winter Conference in New York City during the month of January. This year, at the request of Dr. Kalman J. Mann, head of the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel, because of the needs of the country, the moral of the civilians, as well as soldiers, Hadassah has been requested to hold its Mid-Winter Conference in Israel. Mrs. Morton V. (Elaine) Ellish, president of the Lower New York State Region of which Kingston is a part, has announced that she will serve as representative through Jan. 23 for a comprehensive study of not only Hadassah's needs but the needs of the State, the accomplishments, as well as what must be done for tomorrow.

In a directive from Rose Matzkin, national president, regional presidents have been asked not to extend their stay, but rather to come back to their Regions and give to them immediately the conditions as they now exist. Because of the gas situation and time involved, Mrs. Ellish will cover the Region within three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 28-30. The timely, informative lecture closest to Kingston, will be held in Beacon on Tuesday, Jan. 29 at 8:30 p.m. at the Beacon Hebrew Alliance Center. Husbands are welcome as well as any friends regardless of Hadassah affiliation. For further information Mrs. Morton Lurie of Kingston may be contacted.

A Toast and a Toasted Dessert!

To your health, Prosit. Cheers... as more and more glasses are filled with wine, clinking their toasts for better days, happier hours! In the German wine industry, for example, imports of Moselle and Rhine wine (the two main categories of German wines) have more than tripled in the last 10 years.

Along with increased consumption of wine as a beverage, experiments with wine in cooking have increased, too. It's interesting... sometimes just a dash of wine is used in a recipe; other times, you can use lots more. It just depends on how the flavors of all the ingredients go together.

Moselle Toast is actually a sweet French toast made with wine instead of milk! And it's one of the fastest gourmet desserts you can make. It's especially suited to preparing for an after theatre or other late-evening treat. Just dip the bread in the wine-egg-sugar mixture and saute until browned on both sides. It can be served with just a sprinkling of powdered sugar or with strawberries and whipped cream as shown here.

To complete the meal or snack... a chilled glass of wine. A good rule of thumb for selecting the wine: serve the same wine you used in the recipe!

Moselle Toast

One cup Moselle wine
Two eggs
One-fourth cup granulated sugar
One teaspoon vanilla
Eight slices thick-sliced bread
Two tablespoons butter

Beat wine, eggs, sugar and vanilla together. Dip bread slices in wine mixture. Saute in butter until golden on both sides. Serve immediately sprinkled with confectioners' sugar or with strawberries and sweetened whipped cream. Makes eight servings.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc. World Rights Reserved

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a married executive and meet many people socially as well as on a business basis, with my husband.

Over the years he has never ceased to embarrass me with his talk and occasionally his actions. He frequently, without warning, bursts out with cursing or an obscene action or expression. I realize this is equally embarrassing to others as it is to me. The hurt is beyond description! My pleas and discussions do not in any way point out to him the harm he does to both of us. What reactions should I show when this happens again and again? I try to act as a lady should but I shudder to think people may think I approve of his actions or that we live in a home of obscenities.

Please advise me.

"Embarrassed"

Dear "Embarrassed": Apparently, since you have stayed married for years, this man must be a good husband in other ways, and presumably you have not felt strongly enough to make an out-and-out issue of his actions before. Since it has been going on for so long, the habit must be well engrained, and therefore will be hard to break. If no one has seriously criticized your husband up until now, he undoubtedly assumes that his off-color talk is amusing.

Talk to him frankly and more strongly than you have before about your feelings, and if you have discussed it with any of your friends and they have noticed it and found it obnoxious, too, tell him their reactions. Tell him that you can't take it any more, and will leave the party if he insists on being obscene. If you do not wish to go that far, there is only one other recourse — ignore it completely. Don't laugh, don't egg him on. Perhaps it is not as obvious to others as it is to you, and in any case I assure you, no one will criticize you or think you approve if you take either of the above courses.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Two-Way Street for Doctors, Patients

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: When I was in Northern Ireland I had occasion to visit a gynecologist for a pelvic examination. I observed that the doctor did not have a nurse at his elbow as American doctors do.

I asked the foreign doctor if that was not required by law, and he said, "No, what would be the purpose of such a law?"

I explained that some American women are fearful that a male doctor will take advantage of them, so the law requires that a nurse be present during the examinations.

The foreign doctor replied: "There must be a lot of very conceited women in that country!"

C. H.

DEAR C. H.: The law requiring the presence of a nurse during such examinations is for the protection of the doctors as well as the patients. Some patients make passes at their doctors, or claim that their doctors have made passes at them.

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with that man who wrote in to say that having a snake for a pet wasn't all that easy. I have a pet snake named Oscar. He is a common king snake and is hardly any trouble at all.

He eats one mouse a week which costs only 81 cents, and we never have to walk him. He doesn't keep anybody awake with his barking all night, and if we have unwelcome visitors we just let Oscar out, and they don't stay long.

Oscar is very loving. He wraps himself around my mom's ankle while she's cooking. Besides, all my friends envy me having Oscar for a pet.

MARK GIRARDI, LARGO, FLA.
DEAR MARK: Hooray for you! Give my regards to Oscar.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a wife whose husband was a "cold fish." He'd touch her only when they were making love — and at no other time.

Well, Abby, her husband may be a cold fish, but my man is a polar bear! With him, it's always: "Not in front of the kids," "Not in front of the neighbors," "Not in front of the mirror."

The other wife said she thinks her husband doesn't like to be touched because he was never handled with affection when he was a child. I told my polar bear that theory and he agreed. He said that in New England, where he was raised, people were a little more "reserved." And he added that if I wanted someone to hold my hand all day I should have a married a glove!

Please print this letter as a warning to all those reserved mothers who have a hands-off policy toward their children. Pick them up, for heaven's sake, and cuddle them, or they'll wind up like my polar bear!

POLAR BEAR'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Good advice. In order to know how to give affection, one must receive it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers that any Family

Planning or Planned Parenthood Clinic will provide, completely confidential, birth control services to any woman of any age for nothing or only a small fee.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY HAS A GIFT FOR GIVING!
Dear Heloise:

We are very fond of our friends' children, and like to remember them on gift-giving occasions. However, as you know, these extra gifts strain the budget.

This past year I had an idea that worked beautifully.

I went to the public library — the children's section — and took out some books on Scientific experiments. Most of these books are written for children to read at home so the experiments call for materials that are ordinarily found around the house.

I copied the directions for an experiment I thought my friend's son would like. Then I gathered the necessary materials and put the amounts called for into small boxes, bags or bottles.

I put all of this in a box with the directions, and labeled the box with the words "Science Kit Experiment." I also included the purpose of the experiment and directions.

Mrs. L.P.K.

First of all, to me there's no such thing as "just a reader." I love each and every one of you.

And now you listen here to me. . . There is always a reader. Just like the Good Book says. . . The sun will rise! The moon will shine!

My answer to you is to put one foot in front of the other and keep on walking. When your chin falls, take your finger and put it under that chin and push that head up! Look into the heavens. There is always a way. He left it there for us to find. I am sure you will.

I get many letters like yours. You are only one of the many. Get in the good boat with the rest of us. We may not be able to swim, but we surely have learned to paddle.

Bless you and do let me hear from you again.

Heloise

THIS COLUMN is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Daily Freeman. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Meat Thermometer

The correct place to put a meat thermometer in a turkey that's being roasted is to insert the thermometer into the center of the inner thigh muscle.

No. 7—Mickey Mantle, who as a New York Yankee was one of the most awesome batters in baseball history, is shown (L) in 1964 and (R) on his arrival in New York late Tuesday for the Hall of Fame selection announcement. (UPI)

Mantle, Ford in Hall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, two of the greatest players in baseball history, were elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame today. Mantle, 45, was elected on his first year of eligibility, while Ford, 44, was elected on his second year. The two players were elected to the Hall at Cooperstown, N.Y., where they will be inducted into the Hall of Fame next September.

Mantle is only the seventh player to gain election into the Hall on his first year of eligibility. Ford fell 29 votes short last year when Warren Spahn was the only player Kiner had 215 and nine other players drew 100 or more votes. The 42-year-old Mantle, who was seen about town last night and therefore immediately became a prime candidate to be named a Hall of Famer, talked about getting into the Hall after he retired. Ford, whose 536 career homers place him sixth on the all-time list, and Ford, who won 236 games during his career, played on 12 and 11 Yankee teams between 1950 and 1964. They were also noted for their free interpretation of training rules established by Managers Eddie Stengel and Ralph Houk and the Mathews, seven-time 20-game winners among the players in the famous Copacabana incident.

One of the Best All-Star Games

SEATTLE (UPI) — Big Bob Lanier of Detroit carried the Most Valuable Player award into the West dressing room following his team's 134-123 triumph over the East in the 24th NBA All-Star game Tuesday night.

"I want all you guys to take a good look at this, since you helped me earn it," grinned the 6-11 Lanier, who popped a game high of 24 points before a record crowd of 14,360 at the Seattle Coliseum.

Both coaches, the West's Larry Costello of Milwaukee, and the East's Tom Heinsohn of Boston agreed it was one of the best all-star games seen in many years and both described it as "one hell of a game."

It didn't start out that way, however.

The starting West five, anchored by Milwaukee's 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, ran up a quick 6-0 lead and stretched that to 39-29 at the end of the first quarter.

Portland's Sidney Wicks with 11 points and Lanier and Seattle's Spencer Haywood with 10 each helped build the West's lead to 66-47 at the end of the first half.

The East then mounted its first serious threat racking up the first 14 points of the second half with Boston's Jo Jo White and Dave Cowens leading the way.

The West weathered that threat and pulled out to a 101-85 lead at the end of three.

The East refused to fold, however. A jump shot by New York's Dave DeBusschere with 3:46 left narrowed the West margin to 120-115. That wilted to 120-117 when Elvin Hayes of the Capital Bullets dropped in a pair of free throws.

Costello admitted he was "sweating a little bit" at this point but, with Jabbar holding down the pivot and Lanier playing forward for the first time since high school, the West held on.

Jabbar hit a right-handed hook and Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers scored on a layin with 2:31 for a 124-117 West edge. Portland's Geoff Petrie added a pair of jumpers and Jabbar hit a 12-footer with just seconds left as the West closed it out.

Cedeno Fined $100

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Baseball star Cesar Cedeno, fined $100 after being found guilty of involuntary manslaughter Tuesday, plans to return to Houston as soon as possible for surgery on his injured knee and hopes to attend spring training with the Houston Astros on schedule.

Cedeno continued to refuse to talk to newsmen, as he has since being arrested following the Dec. 11 shooting death of 19-year-old Altigracia de la Cruz in a Santo Domingo hotel room.

But relatives of the 23-year-old outfielder said Tuesday they expect Cedeno to return to Houston for surgery on the injured knee, which prevented him from playing winter ball this season.

Cedeno, who could have drawn a three-year prison sentence, still has two civil suits pending for possible damages, one on behalf of Miss Cruz's year-old daughter, the other filed by her aunt and uncle.

But legal sources said Cedeno would not have to remain in Santo Domingo for the civil suits, paying the way for his return to Houston.

The only other possible criminal action would be over possession of an illegal firearm, but police said Tuesday the gun in the shooting had been registered by Cedeno. Also relatives of Miss Cruz could appeal the sentence imposed by Judge Porfirio Natera, but since they did not attend the trial Monday this apparently is not being planned.

Cedeno's 22-year-old wife, Cora, was at his side during the 1½-hour trial Monday. Eleven witnesses were summoned to the trial, but only five appeared to testify.

Judge Natera announced his ruling to newsmen Tuesday. There was no court session. Houston Astros General Manager Spec Richardson declined to comment on the Cedeno affair. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn also had no comment.

Cedeno spent 20 days in jail following the early-morning shooting of Miss Cruz, who had been in a hotel room with Cedeno.

In a statement made during the official investigation of the case, Cedeno said Miss Cruz had picked up his gun to examine it. He said he reached to take the weapon from her, for fear it might discharge, and the gun accidentally went off.

Police said paraffin tests showed that Miss Cruz had fired the weapon, and not Cedeno.

Cedeno had originally been charged with voluntary manslaughter. He served 20 days in jail until the charge was reduced to involuntary manslaughter, making him eligible for bail. He was freed on $10,000 bond New Year's Eve.

Arnsperger's Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants were expected to announce today that Bill Arnsperger, who engineered the highly successful Miami defense, will become head coach of the National Football League club.

The Giants have scheduled a news conference for 3:30 p.m. EDT, reportedly to announce that Arnsperger will replace departed Coach Alex Webster, whose team compiled a 2-11-1 record last season.

"It is something I am considering," said the Dolphin defensive coach after watching Miami defeat Minnesota Sunday for its second straight Super Bowl triumph.

But despite Arnsperger's hesitancy to make any definite statement, all the signs pointed toward a breakup in the team of Arnsperger and head coach Don Shula, which began when both worked as assistant coaches at Kentucky during the 1950s.

When Shula, who has worked with Arnsperger in professional ball for 10 years, first at Baltimore and then at Miami, presented him with one of the two game balls from the championship game, he quipped, "That ends the rumor. The Giants are getting one helluva coach."

Arnsperger has been in charge of the Miami defense for the last four years. After passing up a chance to return to Baltimore as head coach last season, Arnsperger was given the title of assistant head coach at Miami.

Arnsperger is a native of Paris, Ky., and after World War II he played tackle at Miami of Ohio where he later became the team's offensive line coach. He also coached at Ohio State, Kentucky, where he first worked with Shula, and Tulane before going to the Colts.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints have hired Wimp Hewley as offensive line coach from the New York Jets.

Hewley, 42, began his professional career as a freshman line coach at Wyoming in 1960, went to Purdue as offensive line coach in 1967, and joined the Jets in 1971.

Motta Hit With Hard Slap

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — and a $2,000 fine. Dick Motta told NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy he was a changed man. And until his Chicago Bulls lost a controversial game in overtime to the Seattle Supersonics Jan. 4, it appeared he was.

Then Motta blew up, just like he often did in his first three seasons in the NBA, and Tuesday, Kennedy threw the book at him, just as Motta had suggested he could.

Shortly before the NBA All-Star game, Kennedy handed the young Bulls' coach the most severe publicly announced punishment in the history of the league—a week-long suspension

"I agree with the punishment," Motta told a news conference. "I won't fight that or try to argue that."

"I told the commissioner yesterday I wasn't too happy with my action. If I had to do it right now with a cool head, I probably wouldn't have gone through it again."

What Motta did, Kennedy said, was storm off the bench with his team after the Bulls lost 103-101 in overtime to Seattle and blocked the game officials' path to the dressing room. Motta then allegedly twice placed his hand on one of the officials.

Name Harvey Bostic Head Pro at Wiltwyck

KINGSTON Wiltwyck Golf Club dipped into its own ranks in naming a successor to Bill Reilly as head Professional for the 1974 season.

For Harvey Bostic, who has received the appointment, it marks the culmination of a dream he has been dreaming for the past few years.

"I am delighted to get the job," said the 38-year-old IBM employee, who has become something of a golf legend in his own time, moving from the caddy ranks at the old Wiltwyck nine-hole course to all-time stature among area golfers.

Bostic was the choice of the Wiltwyck Board of Directors after an intensive screening process that included several outstanding candidates, notably Lou Merkle and Bob Haggerty Jr. of the Northeastern PGA and professionals from Massachusetts.

"We were guided by the fact that there was substantial support for Harvey within our own membership," said a Wiltwyck official. "We think he will do a fine job for us."

Bostic, who has been employed at IBM for the past two years, said he has been thinking about a golf career for some time now. "The idea of becoming a golf pro and getting involved with youngsters has appealed to me for a long time. I'm grateful that Wiltwyck is giving me the chance and the reaction has been wonderful."

Bostic's appointment becomes effective on April 1. He described the terms of his contract "satisfactory" and said he would be assisted in the pro shop by his wife, Pappy Bostic, who is extremely popular with the Wiltwyck membership.

One factor in Bostic's favor in the appointment was the feeling among many directors that the club desired a man young enough to grow with the club. As one official put it, "We know Harvey can handle the job and we expect him to be with us for a long time."

As a long hitting golfer, Bostic has won numerous major individual titles and is generally rated No. 2, behind his long time friend and rival, Leon Randall among area golfers.

Bostic has captured four Ulster County (Herdegen) titles, three Wiltwyck club titles, four Wiltwyck Invitationals and twice shared the Ulster County Doubles with Randall. He and Randall have been invited many times to some of the most prestigious invitationals in the East, such as the Anderson Four-Ball and Rochester Invitational.

1972 and 1973 is ready for Notre Dame. That was Wooden's diagnosis Tuesday after his 6-11 superstar, wearing a corset and performing at near maximum efficiency, rejoined the Bruins for a 90-minute workout.

"He's much better than I hoped for," said Wooden, who leaves with his club today for a two-game invasion of the Midwest, including the national TV game at No. 2-rated Notre Dame.

"Bill is moving so much better now," he added.

An Irish tuneup against Georgetown Tuesday night was a rout from the beginning, as John Shumate and Adrian Dantley sparked a 17-4 burst at the start and led their undefeated team to its ninth victory of the year with a 104-77 triumph.

Georgetown came out with a full court press in the opening minutes, but Notre Dame wheeled through it, with the 6-foot-7 Shumate scoring five baskets from outside and husky forward Dantley scoring three times on drives to put Notre Dame into a 13-point edge. Georgetown then switched to a zone defense, but never got closer than 11 points again, as Notre Dame shot 49 per cent from the field.

Shumate finished the game with 26 points, although he only played 26 minutes, and Dantley scored 22 points while playing 22 minutes. Georgetown, which was forced into 32 turnovers by the tight Notre Dame man-to-man defense, was led by 6-foot-9 Bill Lynn, with 20 points, and 6-foot-7 Larry Long, with 15 points. Georgetown dropped to 4-5 with the loss.

In other action Tuesday night, sixth-ranked Marquette whipped Butler 73-54. Oregon handed Hawaii only its second loss in 14 starts, 86-62. Drake downed Arkansas State 89-69. Kansas beat Iowa State 73-69.

Boston University edged Harvard 92-90 and Boston College defeated Northeastern 65-59 in the first round of the Beantop Classic. Baylor clipped Rice 93-91. Oral Roberts walloped Nebraska-Omaha 111-79. Texas drubbed TCU 104-53. Air Force beat Wyoming 64-56 and Colorado State beat Denver 71-65.

The Marquette Warriors ran off 12 consecutive points at the end of the first half and went on to an easy victory over Butler. The Warriors held a comfortable 27-18 lead with just over four minutes left in the first half but then exploded to score the next 12 points and took a commanding 39-18 lead into the locker room.

Maurice Lucas led Marquette with 18 points and Lloyd Walton added 11. Wayne Burris was high for Butler with 16 points. Marquette is now 13-1 while Butler dropped to 5-8.

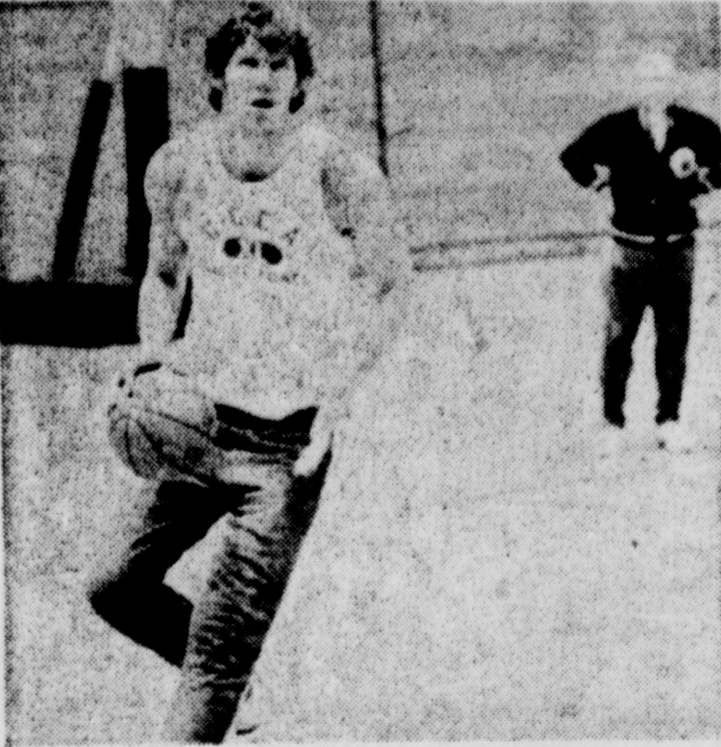

The third time's a charm. Hobart beat Rochester Tech, but I'm sure glad they called it," said Brooks, who admitted being "a little nervous" at the line.

Stubborn Ottawa used two last-second shots to force Hartwick into the second overtime. Merve Sabey tied the game in regulation play and Dave Cronin scored for a first-overtime tie.

Rod Brooks calmly canned two free throws with one second remaining to give Siena victory in a battle of two highly rated New York State teams.

The deciding foul was called on Hartwick's John Leone. "It wasn't a real good foul, but I'm sure glad they called it," said Brooks, who admitted being "a little nervous" at the line.

Senior Chet Evans rallied St. Lawrence to its two-point upset of LeMoyne. He scored 24 points and snagged eight rebounds. Freshman Pete Hogan had 26 points for the losers. In the fourth two-point upset of the night, Hobart edged Rochester Tech after trailing most of the game. Dave Silveri topped the Statesmen with 19 points, but Rochester's Ed Davis led all scorers with 27.

BACK IN HARNESS — UCLA's Bill Walton practices at Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles as coach John Wooden stands in distant background with a close eye on his big man. This was Walton's first practice session in more than a week as the result of a back injury suffered by the All-American center. It is expected that Walton will play against number two ranked unbeaten Notre Dame Saturday. (UPI)

Win for Stars

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Bill van Breda Kolff and his Memphis Tams' players said they feel like they've been "snake bit" following their latest cliffhanger American Basketball Association loss to the Utah Stars 89-87 Tuesday night.

The Utah-Memphis action was the only game in the ABA. The only action in the National Basketball Association was the All-Star Game.

"I was looking for a snake under the bench," said van Breda Kolff. "We are just snake-bit."

A Glen Combs' three-pointer try for Memphis at the buzzer would have won the game, but the shot danced around on the rim, then skipped off the far side. It was the second game in a row when a three-pointer wouldn't go in for the Tams in the final second.

"I had a good angle on Glen's shot and it looked like it was going in," said van Breda Kolff. "We had set it up for George Thompson to try for the basket, but they double-teamed

Koola in Debut

Having completed the required year of ineligibility following his transfer from Ulster County Community College, "Pistol Pete" Koola of Rosendale becomes eligible for the Albany State basketball team Friday night against visiting Stony Brook. And is Coach Dick Sauers happy to have him in the fold.

"He'll give us real depth inside and figures to be a key front court reserve," says Sauers, the winningest basketball coach in New York State. Sauers is high on the former UCCCL leaper, having scouted him personally on several occasions.

Koola's arrival on the Great Dames squad coincides with the loss of junior Rich Kapner of Valley Stream, who will be out several weeks after dislocating his shoulder last week at Brockport. Kapner was averaging only 3.8 points a game, but was the team's assist leader with 24.

Don't count the 6-4 Koola out of the starting lineup possibilities with the Dames. The former Roundout Valley High ace is a fine leaper and is very happy with the setup at Albany.

Albany State is 5-4 going into Friday's game. The four losses have been to standout squads like Siena, Williams, Hartwick and SUNYAC power, Brockport State.

They quickly blew a nine-point halftime lead at Brockport when the hosts outscored them 13-0 in the first six minutes in the first six minutes of the second half.

Byron Miller is Albany's top scorer with a 17.7 game average.

Chuck Massa, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Massa of Kingston, hauled a whopping 29-inch snook out of the Hester River estuary in Estero, Florida, on a recent vacation trip to see Uncle Jim Massa.

"We're all thrilled about it," said Mrs. Massa. "Chuck had to battle the fish about 45 minutes before he landed him. It was a fantastic catch according to the local people."

Florida fish and game laws limit the catching of snook to PETE KOOLA minimum 18 inches. Chuck snagged the snook with a trawl using a lure.

Uncle Jim, meanwhile, is a very busy man these days, supervising the 250-trailer complex in Estero. Not much chance to be thinking about mid-winter basketball promotions.

Jackie Knowles missed the eighth and ninth games on the Niagara University basketball schedule, according to Mike Shaw, director of the Niagara sports bureau.

Shaw cited "personal reasons" for Knowles' absence from the two contests. Jackie had 18 rebounds and a 6.0 scoring average through the Purple Eagles' first seven games. The Eagles are now 7-5 on the season, with recent losses to LaSalle and Canisius.

The Kingston Kickers soccer team isn't dead, just in a state of suspended animation. And like the legendary phoenix bird, it will rise again from its own ashes, according to a couple of Kingston Sport Club members who should know—Kurt Schoch and William (Bill) Oehler.

Schoch, one of the prime movers in the organization of the Kickers several years ago, has returned to the club presidency. That's a big plus for the Kickers.

It has been at Oehler's superb complex at Morgan Hill that the Kickers achieved their greatest stature as one of Ulster County's all-time winning teams.

In a recent letter, Schoch and Oehler explained the current status of the Kickers:

"The Sport Club did not field a team this year because of the German-American Football Association ruling that a franchise must field a reserve team when playing in a division higher than the League Division, the lowest ranked of the three-tiered setup in GAFA. The top circuit is Major, with Premier in the middle.

"Our team won promotion to the Premier Division at the end of the 1972-73 season, after we voluntarily left that division at the end of the 1971-72 season because we doubted we could find a reserve team on a full-time basis," they said.

Schoch and Oehler have a point when they claim that the GAFA ruling on reserve teams is "rather outmoded."

"In nearly all sports in the United States, the reserves are part of the first team squad," they rightfully point out. "GAFA insists that the reserves be a separate team playing its own schedule. We're simply not equipped to do that."

New York State rules prohibit high school players from competing with outside teams during the regular season in any sport. And that's the big roadblock for the Kickers.

"Apparently, the rule doesn't apply in the metropolitan area," they explain. "Beyond that, there are large ethnic blocs in metropolitan that provide a lot of talent for reserved teams."

The Kickers are in good shape financially and hopeful of the future. But any effort by GAFA to change the scholastic rules to permit scholastic players to compete on reserve teams is doomed to failure. It just won't happen. The Kickers will have to come up with some other solution to their dilemma.

Bowman Used Top Strategy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman provided some solid strategy Tuesday night; his team just couldn't put the puck in the net.

So despite Bowman's brainstorming, the Montreal Canadiens were beaten by the Los Angeles Kings 2-1.

Bowman, who had an idea that Los Angeles goalie Roganien Vachon was using a stick that did not conform to National Hockey League regulations, decided to pick his spot before asking referee Wally Harris to measure the stick.

After his Canadiens fell behind 2-0, he waited until Murray Wilson scored for Montreal to bring the Canadiens within one. Then, when the Kings' Frank St. Marseille drew a minor penalty at 10:47, Bowman made his move.

He asked Harris to measure the stick, and the referee found it to exceed NHL regulations by 3 1/2 inches. That meant Vachon had to be assessed a two-minute penalty, putting the Kings two men down and giving the Canadiens a golden opportunity to tie the score.

But they didn't score, or even get a solid scoring opportunity. The Kings managed to kill the double penalty, then held on for the remainder of the period to beat the Canadiens 2-1.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the New York Islanders defeated the Atlanta Flames 4-3, the Minnesota North Stars beat the St. Louis Blues 5-3 and the Vancouver Canucks downed the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2.

Kingston Hosts Arlington Five

How will Kingston High School's basketball team react to its heart-breaking one point defeat at Beacon? That's the main question to be answered tonight when the Maroons swing back into action with an 8 p.m. game at Arlington High.

KHS, now 3-2, came this close to upsetting the powerful Bulldogs, but a buzzer basket reverse its fortunes. Saugerties Panella, who sat out the

Wrestling Setbacks For Maroons and SHS

WICCOPEE Saugerties and Kingston High Schools were involved in Dutchess County Scholastic League wrestling action Tuesday afternoon and each suffered defeats. But the Sawyers came out 500 on the day when they split a double dual while KHS was only meeting the one team to which it host.

North Carolina Player Held for Shoplifting

RALEIGH (UPI) — North Carolina State University basketball player Morris J. "Moe" Rivers, a 6-foot-1 junior guard, faces trial Feb. 14 on a shoplifting charge.

Rivers, 20, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was stopped Monday night after leaving the Mission Valley convenience store with a 35-cent bottle of aspirin, according to Richard E. Elsenger, head of the Merchants' Detective Agency.

Norman Sloan, coach of the 3rd ranked Wolfpack, suspended Rivers for one game following the charge of larceny

The Sawyers dropped a 42-11 decision to tough John Jay on the Patriots' mats. Then Saugerties trimmed Ketcham, 33-18. Kingston, meanwhile, visited Freedom Plains and lost to powerful Arlington, 43-9.

The Sawyers' Dean Limeri and Bill Landell came out of the day's action as double winners. Limeri beat Jay's Pau-liccio, 9-5, and Ketcham's Sal

Jucino, 7-0, in the 155 pound class. Landell was a 7-2 victor over Jay's John Harris and a winner by fall at 3:52 of his

167 pound match with Ken

Mullen of Ketcham.

Saugerties now has a 4-1 record. A 4 p.m. home match with Haldane on Friday is next on the Sawyer schedule.

Kingston spotted Arlington three matches by forfeit, but the strong Admirals hardly needed the advantage. KHS' only wins of the day were scored by 126 pound Eric

Knight, 147 Ron Reedy, and 177

Paul Martino.

Maroon coach Dean Short pointed out, however, that he is highly pleased by the efforts prospect of having to face some of the better wrestlers in the league, are giving the opposition

a tough time.

Big Night In UCAL

KINGSTON

In the most eventful evening of the Ulster County Athletic League basketball season Tuesday, powerful Fallsburgh was nearly upset, Wallkill and Onteora broke into the win column, the league's high scorer was suspended for the season, Division II's first place team managed to eke out a victory, and Coleman turned in one of its best showings of the year.

Depending on your rooting interest, any one of the following stories was capable of taking top billing:

● Fallsburgh, the state's No. 2 ranked small school which had averaged 100 points in five UCAL games, had to come from behind to post a 65-63 overtime victory over Ellenville and remain in a Division I first place tie with Liberty.

● Wallkill presented Coach Si Pesavento with his first win as the Panthers upset Red Hook, 81-69.

● Prior to the Wallkill-Red Hook contest, Coach Rod Chando revealed that 6-6 center Kevin Kelly, a problematic player all through his scholastic career, but one who had seemed to mature this year while assuming the league lead in individual scoring, was suspended for the rest of the season for "disciplinary reasons."

● Onteora finally came out of a game victorious as it held off New Paltz, 62-57.

● Marlboro, the Division II leader, survived a late scare to beat Highland, 48-45.

● Coleman, rebounding from a one-point defeat at Highland, dumped Pine Bush, 77-60, as Ronnie Weber scored 23 points and played a strong all-round game.

A 15-foot jump shot by Ricky Woodard with two seconds left in overtime enabled Fallsburgh to complete its rally and maintain its perfect record.

The Comets rebounded an Ellenville shot with 18 seconds left, ran the clock down to 0:02, then got the winner on Woodard's hoop.

Earlier, Fallsburgh trailed by four points with 38 seconds left in regulation time before coming up with two clutch baskets to send the game into overtime. Prior to that, Ellenville had taken a seven-point second half lead, the biggest advantage by either club for the night. The score was tied at the half, 26-26.

"Ellenville slowed it down in the first half," said a relieved Comet coach Jim McDermott. "They're a good ball club and I thought that Ray Younger was very, very good."

McDermott's team got 20 points from Charlie Hinton, but it was reserve Norris Gilmore, who scored only four, who drew the coach's praise.

"Gilmore was my outstanding player tonight," he exhorted. Leon Ware of Ellenville led all scorers with 26 points.

No Comment
Meanwhile at Red Hook, Coach Chando refused to elaborate on his suspension of Kelly, who had scored 131 points in six games. The Raiders certainly missed the big man on the court, but those close to the team said Red Hook will be better off without the temperamental big man.

Wallkill was the first to benefit from Red Hook's sudden lack of size. That, and the Panthers' hunger to snap a losing streak, was enough to vault the team to victory, the first for Pesavento since he left New Paltz State to take the job at Wallkill.

"They came to play," said Chando of Wallkill. "And we were trying to adjust without a center. It's tough to practice for one style of ball and then go to another."

Chando, whose team won its first three games to take the Division II lead and now finds itself a game and a half behind Marlboro, was heartened by the showing of youngsters Jim Simmons and Ed McMannus and warned "we're not out of it yet."

Mike McAfee scored 24 points for Wallkill with Tom Berryann adding 20. Mike Gilfeather's 21 topped the Raiders.

Malloy Hot

Onteora got 18 points from Tim Malloy as it broke away from winless New Paltz in the second quarter, then held off a late Hugie charge.

"I think the combination of the layoff because of the bad weather and foul trouble was what really hurt us," said New Paltz Coach Frank Davis. His team got 27 points from Greg Garcia.

Two free throws by Jim Pagano iced Marlboro's win after Highland had scored what would have been the winning basket had it not been erased by a foul. Without the foul, Highland would have been up 47-46 with four seconds to go. Instead, Marlboro got the ball, Highland was forced to commit another foul, and Pagano put it away for the Dukes.

Super Night

The Statesmen's Weber was "super" according to his coach, Bill DuBois, as Coleman bounced Pine Bush. Besides scoring 23 points, Weber was all over the court, stealing Bushmen passes, setting up plays, and grabbing rebounds. "Ronnie always gives me 200 per cent," DuBois said, "but tonight he was something else."

Coleman jumped out to an 18-point first half lead, saw it evaporate to eight by halftime, then came alive again in the second half to win going away. In junior varsity action, Coleman beat Pine Bush, 55-37, as Jimmy Kenney scored 300 points and Pete Gallagher added 18; and Fallsburgh beat Ellenville, 38-37, behind Barry Davis' 17. Red Hook beat Wallkill, 37-33. No other JV scores were reported.

Rondout Let One Slip Away

By DON TREAT

KYSERIKE

When you've got Liberty High on the ropes you better not let up. Rondout seemingly had the Redskins beaten here Tuesday night, but a fourth quarter rally provided Liberty with a 58-55 decision.

It was really a case of the Ganders giving it away more than anything else. Costly turnovers and fouls fueled the Redskins' fire.

With a minute gone in the final quarter, Rondout led 49-41. Liberty put on a full court press and in less than three minutes the Redskins had scored 10 unanswered points.

Most of the damage was done at the free throw line. The Ganders felt it slipping away little by little and the momentum was gone for good.

Reggie Biddings and Rae Bridges were the prime ingredients in the victory, scoring 20 and 16 points, respectively. They combined for 11 of Liberty's 18 fourth quarter points.

Rondout had played a smart, disciplined game until the last seven minutes. On offense the Ganders patiently worked for good shots and successfully got the ball into pivotman Joe McCall.

McCall had 16 points at the close of the third period and still had 16 at the final buzzer. His rebounding at both ends was solid.

The Ganders' shots just wouldn't drop, in addition to all of their other problems. Cory Schoonmaker, Rolf Koola and Steve James had all found the range earlier.

Of that trio, James and Koola each had a basket in the last stanza. All three scored 10 points.

"We gave them too many gifts," explained Rondout mentor Mickey Million. "Don't take anything away from Liberty, though. They're a fine team and deserved to win."

Despite the kind words, Million thought his squad should have beaten the favored Redskins. Any coach would when his troops had outplayed the opposition for better than three quarters.

"I think my team figured it had the game won," proposed Million. "They relaxed and got beat."

It was a must win game for both teams but almost life or death for Liberty. The Redskins could ill afford any losses before meeting UCAL Division I powerhouse Fallsburgh.

The Redskins and Comets stand atop the division with 6-0 records. Their first meeting will come next Tuesday at Fallsburgh.

Coach Floyd Emery had to get after his Redskins to shake them out of lethargy. He woke them just in time to save trouble.

Koola kept the referees busy in the second half. He fouled out with 4:13 to play and had two technicals called prior to his exit.

Liberty's advantage from the foul line was a whopping 16-3. Part of that might be explained by the styles of defense.

The Redskins stayed in a zone, while Rondout played a more aggressive man for man. And then there is always that tendency to keep fouling once you've started.

Before the big one with Fallsburgh, Liberty plays Pine Bush at home on Friday. The Ganders get a crack at the Comets first, when they entertain them in a Friday matchup.

Rondout (4-2) isn't out of the running yet, especially after the strong showing against the Redskins. The Ganders are in fourth place in Division I.

In the JV game, Rondout put together a strong fourth quarter to outdistance Liberty 46-35.

In other league action, Red Hook defeated Walkkill, 36-24, and tough Ellenville outlasted New Paltz, 34-20.

Onteora came up with several convincing victories against the youthful Comets, the most one-sided of which was a nine-second pin by 119 pound Chris St. John over Tony Diers. Other rapid OCS falls were posted by Tony DeBellis (59 seconds), Ken St. John (50 seconds) and Chris Klinger (38 seconds).

The Syracuse Blazers: 80-Game Home Streak

By TONY BAKER
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Ron Ingram's Syracuse Blazers hockey club has a number of things going for it, and winning at home is certainly one of them.

Ingram, coach and general manager of the North American Hockey League team, has steered the Blazers to a remarkable 76-0-5 regular season home ice record. It began Jan. 5, 1972, when the Blazers fought to a 5-5 tie with the Johnstown Jets in the old Eastern Hockey League.

Since that tie the Blazers have skated through 80 consecutive games at home without a loss. In fact, the last time fans witnessed defeat on the Onondaga County War Memorial ice in regular season play was Jan. 2, 1972, when the Sun Coast Suns, also of the reorganized EHL, nipped the Blazers 2-1.

"This is the longest one (home ice winning streak) I've heard of in professional hockey," Ingram said. "We've established a trend in Syracuse we hope we can continue in definitely."

"It's quite unbelievable really that no one has been able to knock us off. We've been very fortunate—maybe a little lucky, too—to have gotten this far."

Following the loss to the Suns, the Blazers recorded a 19-0-2 mark at home during the latter half of the 1971-72 season, Ingram's first as coach.

Last year, the team compiled what Ingram believes was the only undefeated regular season home schedule in professional hockey. The team had a 36-0-2

KBA Designates Four For 1974 Hall of Fame

KINGSTON Kingston Bowling Association has tapped four living members for induction into the KBA Hall of Fame on Saturday, March 30, at a place to be designated later.

Named in the category for exceptional skills over a minimum of 15 years were Bob Bob Shlightner, Ken Joseph and Harry Smith.

Eugene Vogel was cited for distinguished service to bowling. Now approaching 80, he was a Bowling Milkman in the mould of Addison (Ad) Jones, one of the charter members of the association's Hall of Fame.

Shlightner, who is still active, is considered one of the area's all-time bowling greats, a solid 200 average performer, with several 700 triples to his credit. Smith is a 30-year veteran, who has bowled consistently in the 185-190 average range and was long identified with Jones Dairy teams.

Joseph also rates among the area greats over the past 25 years.

The Hall of Fame dinner is open to the public. The sale of

Csonka, Warfield Out

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins' contingent to the Pro Bowl, bruised and battered in their 24-7 Super Bowl win over Minnesota last Sunday, began limping out of the AFC camp here Tuesday.

Star running back Larry Csonka, wide receiver Paul Warfield and defensive end Bill Stanfill left camp after declaring themselves medically unfit for the Pro Bowl game Sunday in Kansas City. Both squads came here for workouts to escape bad weather in Kansas City.

Earlier Tuesday, offensive tackle Wayne Moore was excused from the game after undergoing a medical examination. Moore is nursing a twisted knee.

Two other Dolphin starters, offensive guard Larry Little and halfback Mercury Morris, were expected to be examined today by NFL doctors.

Csonka, who set a Super Bowl rushing record against the Vikings, required stitches on his face after the game. An NFL spokesman said Csonka, Stanfill and Warfield left camp after being told to report to a doctor for examinations.

Warfield has been nursing a pulled muscle since the week before the Super Bowl, while Stanfill said he suffered bruised ribs in the Vikings game.

Spartans Jolt Rhinebeck Five

SPACKENKILL High to a 51-49 upset DCSL Bi-Perry Goldman's 18-foot jump shot with six seconds left on the clock lifted Spackenkill to victory over Rhinebeck here Tuesday night.

Fran Donates Super Purse

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton has donated his entire "losers" share of Super Bowl earnings—$7,500—to help retarded children and drug addicts.

"I really mean it sincerely when I say I don't want anybody's gratitude for trying to help in this way, and I don't think any other football player should feel the same obligation," Tarkenton said Tuesday.

"I've been playing for a long time (13 years). I've prospered partly through the efforts of other people. Being in the playoffs with the Vikings has been the greatest experience of my athletic career."

"The spiritual rewards are the ones that I will remember, and maybe the one the athlete needs most when you come down to it."

"I consider it a privilege to give in this way, and I do it in the name of my Viking teammates as well as myself."

Tarkenton, who went to his home in Atlanta after the Vikings lost to the Miami Dolphins, gave $3,750 to Daytop Village, a rehabilitation program for drug addicts in New York, and $3,750 to the Minneapolis Association for Retarded Children.

He became acquainted with Daytop when he was playing with the New York Giants. He said it is "one of the worthiest programs I know."

Spackenkill played a deliberate kind of game," explained Rhinebeck assistant coach Jay Kosseff. "They used a box and entire 'losers' share of Super Bowl earnings—$7,500—to help retarded children and drug addicts."

"What really hurt us," he continued, "was Spackenkill's domination on the backboards. They were putting in too many offensive rebounds."

Rhinebeck was down by one with 2:29 to go when a turnover cost it a crucial basket and made the Indians chase Spackenkill to the wire. They finally caught up in the closing seconds only to see Goldman's hoop do them in.

Goldman led the Spartans with 17 points. Buff Silvester added 15. Mark Siebold scored 18 for Rhinebeck and Eddie Vaughn added 16.

In the JV game, Spackenkill routed Rhinebeck, 87-36, but Kosseff said things should be better for his team when Rocky Sherman returns from the injured list Friday at Webutuck. Craig Galunas scored nine points for Rhinebeck in the Spackenkill game.

'Hot-Dogging' Is New Ski Style

WORLD CUP WINNER — Austria's Monika Kaserer navigates gates en route to victory in the Women's World Cup Giant Slalom at Grindelwald, Switzerland. She whizzed through the 50-gate course in 1:12.78 to beat Hanny Wenzel of Leichenstein who finished second in 1:13.37 minutes. (UPI)

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WATERTOWN VALLEY, N.H. (AP) — "Hot dog," cried Jack Sanders as he took off down the mountain, dancing first on one ski, then the other, turning, jumping, laughing, falling and rolling in the snow like a 3-year-old.

All the slope was a stage. The falling snow seemed to part like a curtain as this frolicking figure in a royal blue snowsuit did one fancy stunt after another.

Sanders, a 38-year-old lawyer from Hampton, N.H., was the star, a student of a new form of skiing that is captivating imaginations of young bombers and older, established types alike.

From the sun-drenched slopes of California's Squaw Valley to the woodland trails winding down the rugged mountains of New England, acrobatics are "in," the biggest thing for skiing since buckle boots.

Some call it "freestyle." To others, it's "hot-dogging." And its disciples are a new breed of skiers, the loose and lively free spirits of the mountains, grooving on everything they were always taught not to do.

"It really blows my mind. I have a helluva time," said Sanders, who was a downhill racer in college. "One weekend of this relaxes me as much as a whole week of skiing used to . . . It makes skiing a whole new sport."

For years, the ultimate for most skiers was conquering the parallel, whipping down a mountain slope with knees and skis together, leaving a ribbon of snow behind, kicking up clouds of snow at anyone who got in the way.

Today, however, skiers who have mastered the art of flying down an expert trail with their skis together are getting their kicks by learning to cross one ski over the other, doing splits in the snow, turning in full circles and bounding from one snowbank to another, often collapsing on the backs of their skis in what at first glance looks like a backbreaking fall.

For freestyle skiing is a combination of figure skating, ballet, gymnastics, aerial jumping — and imagination. Rubber bones would help. It's style, not speed that counts. And the freestyle performances, with names like at the Washington ski show. Daffy, Otrigger, Helicopter and Space Walk are instant crowd-pleasers.

"Everyone has his own style," said Wayne Wong, a 23-year-old Vancouver, B.C., native of Chinese descent whose stormcloud antics and daring freestyle skiing camps at Crystal Mountain in Washington State and at Vail, Colo. "You don't need the perfect technique to have fun."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: off recreation to a better day. Organize your practical affairs. Look to an expert for help with any problem.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Join with congenials at amusements, but don't argue over finances. Get into the creative work you most like.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Schedule hours and activities to accomplish more and steer clear of a time-waster. Follow your hunches. Some exclusive social affair is favored tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Solve problems with the aid of a clever associate. Don't criticize family. Forgive yourself and others. Put off recreation to a better day. Look to an expert for help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be more cooperative with co-workers and get much done. Put spending that could deplete your assets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't confront bigwig who is usually helpful but could be irate today. Analyze your ideas and make sure they are right. Be with good friends in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Sit down with a good adviser before you delve into that new outlet about which you know even less than little which could make you lose your shirt.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Steer clear of one who is greedy and look to a good friend for aid in gaining personal aims. Follow judgment today instead of intuition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get on the good side of a bigwig instead of listening to an associate who just talks. Delve into civic matter efficiently.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You hit on a fine idea that will help you get ahead faster in your career, but don't argue with co-worker. Plan how to improve health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will resent those who are superficial if you do not teach early to ignore them and to ally self with own kind so that life will be highly successful. Teach also not to criticize, but to be helpful instead, then the fields of medicine, law, teaching, etc., are especially good. Permit to pick own religious affiliation. Excellent at sports.

Pretty soon we'll have the February thaw — it's time to defrost the freezer.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BAD GRADE: (Q.) I got a bad grade. When the report card came my parents made me leave the pep squad. (I was a cheerleader.)

Also I have to stay in the house. I can't call anybody and nobody can call me. I have to study every night. I can't hang around with my friends at any time.

Also I am blamed for everything that happens around my house. What can I do?—Prisoner in Texas.

(A.) You do not say for how long. Isolation such as you describe is drastic and should not be imposed for more than a few days.

Talk to your parents about how unhappy you are. Tell them: you think you could do much better in school with reasonable freedom. This is the truth. You could.

Ask them to give you a chance. I believe they will. They were hurt and disappointed at your bad news, but now they have had time to think about what you are undergoing and should be more understanding.

INEXPENSIVE: (Q.) What can I give to my girl friend to show we're going steady? I don't have much money.—Nearly Broke in Florida.

(A.) It is not really necessary to get the girl anything to show that you care for her. Your actions and attitudes are more important. But if you feel that you must, you could give her an inexpensive silver friendship ring to be worn on her right hand.

Two clubs. Stayman asks opener to bid a four-card major if he has one; otherwise, to bid two diamonds.

Two diamonds. Artificial. Guarantees at last five hearts and asks partner to bid two hearts, whereupon responder will tell more about his hand.

Two hearts. Same as two diamonds, except that it shows a spade suit.

Two spades. Not used in basic Jacoby. In advanced Jacoby is artificial; forcing; and complicated.

Notrump raises. Normal. Jump bids. Natural, strong and forcing.

Today's hand shows the JTB (Jacoby transfer) at work, simply and successfully.

Anyone gets to four spades after the notrump opening. If North plays the hand, East opens the queen of hearts and the defense collects four tricks.

With Jacoby transfer, South plays the hand. East can't ever get in. South gets to discard one of North's on his king of diamonds and makes the game.

Basically, when you play Jacoby transfer you also play Stayman. The responses to an opening notrump are:

Trainmen Working Again, Britain Still in Turmoil

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers ended a 24-hour walkout today, but industrial turmoil raged in Britain, with subway workers taking a strike vote and coal miners maintaining a crippling slowdown.

The nation's 29,000 trainmen returned to work today, ending their second one day walkout in five days. The engineers, however, kept up a month-old slowdown aimed at winning pay demands.

London's 10,000 subway employees voted to strike Feb. 4 and shut down the city's mass transit system unless authorities grant a $14.49 million pay boost.

The nation's 269,000 coal miners continued a two-month slowdown cutting into Britain's dwindling fuel supplies and intensifying the impact of the worldwide energy crisis.

Prime Minister Edward Heath said Tuesday he would make a final attempt to find a way out of the crisis by holding a new round of talks with leaders of the 10-million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), Britain's AFL-CIO.

The government, which imposed a fuel-saving, three-day work week because of the economic crisis, said it might have to take even harder action, prohibiting Britons from lighting more than one room in an apartment at the same time.

"You don't need to do your teeth with the light on," Energy Minister Patrick Jenkin said Tuesday. "Do them in the dark."

The ailing pound plummeted Tuesday to an all-time low of $2.1867 compared with $2.50 a year ago—a drop of 14 per cent.

Dealers predicted it would slump again today.

The TUC called a conference today of 200 top union officials to discuss a compromise accord to end the coal slowdown.

Heath did not set a date for his new meeting with the TUC. His announcement failed to dampen speculation he might dissolve Parliament this week and call a general election to seek a new mandate.

In a political bombshell, Enoch Powell, a maverick former Conservative cabinet minister, said a new election would be "an act of total immorality."

"An election arising out of the present crisis would be fraudulent or worse," he said, sparking newspaper speculation he might urge Conservatives to vote against the government.

Russian Author Called Traitor

MOSCOW (UPI) — The head of the Soviet Writers' Union called Tuesday night for Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn to leave the country and authorities stationed uniformed police around the Nobel Prize-winning author's apartment.

Literaturnaya Gazeta, the weekly newspaper of the writers' group, called Solzhenitsyn "an enemy of the homeland, an enemy of his compatriots, an enemy of all that is dear and sacred to each of us."

Sergei V. Mikhalkov, secretary of the union, which expelled the author in 1969, suggested in a radio broadcast Tuesday night Solzhenitsyn should leave the country.

Friends of Solzhenitsyn said authorities have stationed uniformed policemen, in addition to plainclothes KGB secret police, around the apartment where the author has been staying in Moscow.

The friends said the extra police were put on to "protect" the author because of threats against his life since the publication in Paris two weeks ago of "The Gulag Archipelago," an indictment of Stalinist prison camps.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said Monday Solzhenitsyn deserved the "fate of a traitor" for his works. The denunciation, however, gave no indication of any pending official moves against him.

Solzhenitsyn does not have a permit to live in Moscow and has mainly been staying at an apartment assigned to his wife, Natalya Svetlova. Friends said the apartment has been flooded with threatening telephone calls in recent days.

The friends quoted his wife as saying the Pravda attack started "what we expect will be a war of nerves—the telephone is busy all day with callers expressing the anger of the people."

One caller said he was an undertaker's representative and asked whether there were any orders from the Solzhenitsyn family, the friends said. The household also received funeral notices clipped from Russian emigre newspapers.

Three Are Arrested In Getty Kidnaping

ROME (UPI) — Police said today they have arrested three persons in connection with the kidnaping of J. Paul Getty III and recovered what they believe was part of the $2.9 million ransom paid last month for his release.

Authorities identified the three men as Domenico Barbino, 27; Vincenzo Mammoliti, 32, and Antonio Mancuso, 34. All three are from southern Italy.

Police said two suspects were arrested in Calabria, located at the southern tip of Italy, and the third was picked up in Rome. No other details were disclosed.

The arrests were made by agents of the Rome Flying Squad, which has been in charge of the investigation sending police across much of southern Italy.

Police sources said a prosecutor in Lagonegro, the small town near where Getty was released Dec. 15, issued warrants Tuesday against at least four of the alleged kidnapers.

The 17-year-old, red-haired youth, hippie grandson of American oil tycoon J. Paul Getty, described as one of the world's richest men, was abducted in a Roman piazza July 10 and held for five months by kidnapers who cut off his right ear to press ransom demands.

The billionaire refused to consider the kidnapers demand of $17 million in ransom, saying it would expose his other 14
